THE STATE CAPITOL OF NEW JERSEY.

HISTORY OF NEW JERSEY.

In 1606, King James of England granted a new patent for Virginia (ignoring that of Sir Walter Raleigh, dated in 1584), in which was included the territory now known as the New England States and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The possession of Eastern New Jersey was claimed by the Dutch, the Swedes claiming the right to the Western portion. The former built Fort Nassau, on the Delaware, near Gloucester; Fort Orange, on the Hudson, near Albany; and the Hirsse of Good Hope, on the Connecticut; the latter found the settlements along the Delaware river, after the Dutch built Nassau, the fort not being of sufficient strength to maintain their shadowy claims. Disputes as to the rightful possession of territory continued for years, until the early spring of 1664, when Charles II. sold to his brother James, Duke of York, "all that tract of land adjacent to New England, and lying and being to the westward of Long Island; bounded on the east part by the main sea and part by the Hudson river, and hath upon the west Delaware bay or river, and extendeth southward to the main ocean as far as Cape May, at the mouth of Delaware bay, and to the northward as far as the northernmost branch of said bay or river of Delaware, which is forty-one degrees and forty minutes of latitude, and worketh over thence in a straight line to Hudson river, which said tract of land is hereafter to be called by the name or names of NOVA CÆSAREA or NEW JERSEY." James soon sold this to Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret.

The name was given in honor of Carteret, on account of his gallant defense of the Island of Jersey, at the time he was Governor of the island.

This grant regarded the Dutch and Swedes as intruders, and Berkeley and Carteret not only became rulers, but acquired the right to transfer the privilege to others. Measures were speedily devised for peopling and governing the country. The proprietors published a constitution, dated February 10th, 1664, by which the government of the province was to be exercised by a Governor and Council and General Assembly. The Governor was to receive his appointment from the proprietors; the Council was to be selected by the Governor, who might make choice of six Councilors, at least (or twelve, at most), or any even number between six and twelve.

On the same day that the instrument of government was signed, Philip Carteret, a brother of one of the proprietors, received a commission as Governor of New Jersey. He landed at Elizabeth in August, 1665.

The precise date of the first settlements in New Jersey is not known, though it is believed that the Danes or Norwegians, who crossed the Atlantic with the Dutch colonists, began a settlement at Bergen about the year 1624. About ten years previous, an attempt was made to form a settlement at Jersey City. In 1623, the Dutch West India Company sent out a ship under the command of Capt. Cornelius Jacobse Mey, who entered the Delaware bay and gave his name to its northern cape, and, sailing up the river to Gloucester, built Fort Nassau, which may be considered the first permanent settlement of the State.

Upon the arrival of Governor Carteret, he entered at once upon a vigorous discharge of his duties. A large number of settlers flocked thither, and at an early period the executive authority of the province was established by the appointment of a Council, composed of Captain Nicholas Varlett, Daniel Pierce, Robert Bond, Samuel Edsall, Robert Varquellen and William Pardon. James Bollen was appointed Secretary of the province.

The first Legislative Assembly in the history of New Jersey met at Elizabethtown, on the 26th of May, 1668. The session lasted four days, and was characterized by harmony and strict attention to the business for which the Burgesses and Representatives were summoned by Governor Carteret. It may be noted that this Assembly passed laws by which twelve distinct offenses were made punishable with death. The Assembly adjourned sine die, and seven years elapsed before another convened. The capture of New York by the Dutch, July 30th, 1673, was followed by the subjection of the surrounding country, including the province of New Jersey. The whole of the territory, however, swung back to the possession of the English crown, by the treaty of peace with Holland, on the 9th of February, 1674.

The second General Assembly began its session on the 5th of November, 1675. Eight members of Council, including the Governor, were present, and fourteen Representatives appeared from the towns. Laws were enacted looking to the proper military defense of the province, for the institution of regular courts, and for the assessment of taxes. A code of capital laws was also adopted, similar in its provisions to that passed in 1668.

On the 18th of March, 1673, Lord Berkeley, one of the original proprietors of New Jersey, disposed of his right and interest in the province to John Fenwick and Edward Byllinge, members of the Society of Quakers, or Friends, who paid the sum of £1,000 for the same. John Fenwick received the conveyance in trust for Edward Byllinge, and a dispute as to the terms having arisen, William Penn was called in as arbitrator. He gave one tenth of the province and a considerable sum of money to Fenwick, and the remainder of the territory was adjudged to be the property of Byllinge. A permanent settlement was made at Salem, in June, 1675, and settlements were made at Burlington, "ye falls of ye Delaware" or Trenton, and a flourishing whaling station established at Cape May.

Owing to the continued disputations and dissensions, a division of the territory of the province was agreed upon. By this "Indenture Quintipartite," dated July 1st, 1676, the line of division was made to extend across the province, from Little Egg Harbor to a point in the Delaware river in forty one degrees of north latitude. These divisions were known respectively as East and West Jersey, until the charters of both were surrendered, and the two portions included together under a royal government.

By the retrocession of New Jersey to Great Britain, by the treaty of 1674, the question arose whether the title returned to the proprietors or to the King. To avoid all difficulty, the King recognized the claim of Carteret, and made a new grant to the Duke of York, who also executed a fresh conveyance to Carteret, covering, however, only a part of the original territory of New Jersey. But, before making this conveyance, the Duke included the province in a commission given to Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York, who refused to recognize the authority, as Governor, of Philip Carteret, arrested all magistrates who would not submit to his own jurisdiction, and finally, on April 30th, 1680, carried Carteret himself prisoner to New York. The Duke was finally prevailed upon to acknowledge the claims of the proprietors, and in 1681 the government of Andros came to an end.

East Jersey, in February, 1682, was purchased by William Penn and eleven other Quakers for £3,400. The first Governor under the new proprietors was Robert Barclay, a Scotchman, and one of the twelve purchasers, under whom the country became an asylum for the oppressed members of his creed, and for a time enjoyed great prosperity. But the number of proprietors, the frequent sub-divisions and transfers of shares, and various other difficulties in the way of good government, soon involved the province in trouble, and in 1702 the proprietors surrendered the rights of government to the Crown.

Queen Anne appointed Lord Cornbury Governor of New York and New Jersey, but each continued to have a separate Assembly. In 1738, New Jersey petitioned for a distinct administration, and Lewis Morris was appointed Governor. The population was then about 40,000. The last Royal Governor was William Franklin, the illegitimate son of Benjamin Franklin. A State Constitution was adopted July 2d, 1776, and some of the most important battles of the Revolution took place upon its soil. Among these were the battles of Trenton, Princeton, Red Bank and Monmouth.

The first Legislature met at Princeton, in August, 1776, and chose William Livingston, Governor. The Federal Constitution was adopted by a unanimous vote, December 18th, 1787. The State Capital was established at Trenton, in 1790.

New Jersey, out of 98,806 men liable to do military duty, furnished 88,305 during the civil war, being 10,057 in excess of the number called for by the general government, and within 10,501 of her entire militia at that time. Of this number 79,348 served with State organizations, and the remainder in regiments of other States. The naval and marine enlistments from New Jersey numbered 4,853. The entire expense to the State for organizing, equipping, subsisting, supplying and transporting her troops, was $2,894,384.99.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

OF THE

UNITED STATES.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operations till his assent should be obtained ; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected ; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise ; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States ; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for the naturalization of foreigners ; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitutions, and unacknowledged by our laws ; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation :

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us ;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States ;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world ;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent ;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury ;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses ;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies ;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments ;

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are also absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as Free and Independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which Independent States may of right do. And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

4. When vacancies happen in the representation of any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

OFFICERS—IMPEACHMENT.

5. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SENATE—HOW COMPOSED.

Section III.

1. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years, and each senator shall have one vote.

ROTATION OF SENATORS.

2. Immediately after they shall be assembled, in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. And if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

THEIR QUALIFICATIONS.

3. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

4. The Vice-President of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

5. The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

THE SENATE'S POWERS.

6. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside. And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

7. Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment according to law.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS—HOW ELECTED.

Section IV.

1. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State, by the legislature thereof; but the congress may, at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

WHEN CONGRESS SHALL MEET.

2. Congress shall assemble at least once in every year; and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF EACH HOUSE.

Section V.

1. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

RULES, &C.

2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

JOURNALS.

3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of each house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

ADJOURNMENT.

4. Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

APPOINTMENT TO OFFICE.

2. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time ; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

REVENUE BILLS.

Section VII.

1. All bill for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives ; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

PASSING BILLS, &C.

2. Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States ; if he approve, he shall sign it ; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ORDERS AND RESOLUTIONS.

3. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on the question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

POWERS OF CONGRESS.

Section VIII.

The congress shall have power :

1. To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense, and general welfare of the United States ; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

3. No State shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit delay.

ARTICLE II.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

Section I.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

HOW ELECTED.

2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

ELECTORAL COLLEGES.

3. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot, for two persons, of whom one, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot, one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors, shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the Vice-President. [See XIIIth amendment.]

4. The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

WHO MAY BE ELECTED PRESIDENT.

5. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. [See XIIIth amendment.]

ON THE DEATH, REMOVAL, &C., OF THE PRESIDENT, THE POWERS AND DUTIES DEVOLVE UPON THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

6. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

COMPENSATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

7. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive, within that period, any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

8. Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

THE OATH.

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

POWERS, &C., OF THE PRESIDENT.

Section II.

1. The President shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

TREATIES, AMBASSADORS, &C.

2. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint, ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of department.

APPOINTING POWER.

3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.

Section III.

He shall, from time to time, give to the congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

IMPEACHMENT, &C.

Section IV.

The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

THE JUDICIAL POWER.

Section I.

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their service a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

EXTENT OF THE JUDICIAL POWER.

(See Amendments, Art. XI.)

Section II.

1. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, or other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State, claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

ORIGINAL AND APPELLATE JURISDICTION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

TRIALS FOR CRIMES.

3. The trials of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

TREASON—WHAT AND HOW PUNISHED.

Section III.

1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

2. The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

ACTS, RECORDS, &C., OF EACH STATE.

Section I.

Full faith and credit shall be given, in each State, to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

PRIVILEGES OF CITIZENS.

Section II.

1. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

2. A person charged in any State with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

SERVANTS, &C., TO BE SURRENDERED ON CLAIM.

3. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up, on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

HOW NEW STATES ARE ADMITTED.

Section III.

1. New States may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the congress.

THE DISPOSITION OF TERRITORIES.

2. The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

GUARANTY AND PROTECTION OF THE STATES BY THE UNION.

Section IV.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION—HOW MADE.

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution; or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year eighteen hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article, and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

FORMER DEBTS VALID.

Section I.

All debts contracted, and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

THE SUPREME LAW OF THE LAND.

Section II.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL OATH NO RELIGIOUS TEST.

Section III.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

WHEN THE CONSTITUTION TO TAKE EFFECT.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in the convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth.

STATE CONSTITUTION.

A CONSTITUTION agreed upon by the delegates of the people of New Jersey, in convention begun at Trenton on the fourteenth day of May, and continued to the twenty-ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, ratified by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1844, and amended at a special election held on the seventh day of September, A. D. 1875, and at another special election held on the twenty-eighth day of September, A. D. 1897.

We, the people of the State of New Jersey, grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION :

ARTICLE I.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people, and they have the right at all times to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

3. No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor, under any pretense whatever, to be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform.

4. There shall be no establishment of one religious sect in preference to another; no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and no person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principles.

5. Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the papers and things to be seized.

7. The right of a trial by jury shall remain inviolate; but the legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men.

8. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense.

9. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense, unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy; or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger.

10. No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offense. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or presumption great.

11. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

12. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in a manner prescribed by law.

14. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required, excessive fines shall not be imposed, and cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted.

16. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation; but land may be taken for public highways as heretofore, until the legislature shall direct compensation to be made.

17. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any action, or on any judgment founded upon contract, unless in cases of fraud; nor shall any person be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

18. The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives, and to petition for redress of grievances.

19. No county, city, borough, town, township or village shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit, to or in aid of any individual association or corporation, or become security for or be directly or indirectly the owner of any stock or bonds of any association or corporation.

20. No donation of land or appropriation of money shall be made by the State or any municipal corporation to or for the use of any society, association or corporation whatever.

21. This enumeration of rights and privileges shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

1. Every male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote five months, next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people; provided, that no person in the military, naval or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident in this State, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack, or military or naval place or station within this State; and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of a crime which now excludes him from being a witness unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector; and provided further, that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which, and the time and place at which, such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election districts in which they respectively reside.

2. The legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of the government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Section I.

1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and general assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the senate who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election; and no person shall be a member of the general assembly who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either house of the legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected yearly and every year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; and the two houses shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election, at which time of meeting the legislative year shall commence; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the legislature.

Section II.

1. The senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the State, elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, for three years.

2. As soon as the senate shall meet after the first election to be held in pursuance of this constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year; of the second class at the expiration of the second year; and of the third class at the expiration of the third year, so that one class may be elected every year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

Section III.

1. The general assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the general assembly shall be made by the legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

Section IV.

1. Each house shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the legislature, the writs may be issued by the governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

2. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

3. Each house shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

5. Neither house, during the session of the legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each house, before the final passage thereof; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present and agreeing thereto; and the yeas and nays of the members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

7. Members of the senate and general assembly shall receive annually the sum of five hundred dollars during the time for which they shall have been elected and while they shall hold their office, and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever. The president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation, equal to one-third of their allowance as members.

8. Members of the senate and general assembly shall, in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Section V.

1. No member of the senate or general assembly shall, during the time for which he was elected, be nominated or appointed by the governor, or by the legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this State which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time.

2. If any member of the senate or general assembly shall be elected to represent this State in the senate or house of representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the legislature of this State shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the supreme court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this State, shall be entitled to a seat either in the senate or in the general assembly; but, on being elected and taking his seat, his office shall be considered vacant ; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States shall be entitled to a seat in either house.

Section VI.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of assembly ; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2 No money shall be drawn from the treasury but for appropriations made by law.

3 The credit of the State shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for purposes of war, or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by a law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein ; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged ; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election ; and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be, deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

Section VII.

1. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by the legislature or otherwise in this State, and no ticket in any lottery shall be bought or sold within this State, nor shall pool-selling, book-making or gambling of any kind be authorized or allowed within this State, nor shall any gambling device, practice or game of chance now prohibited by law be legalized, or the remedy, penalty or punishment now provided therefor be in any way diminished.

3. The legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title. No law shall be revived or amended by reference to its title only ; but the act revived, or the section or sections amended, shall be inserted at length. No general law shall embrace any provision of a private, special or local character. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of the act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock and other property which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested and remain a perpetual fund ; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public free schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the State ; and it shall not be competent for the legislature to borrow, appropriate or use the said fund, or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretense whatever. The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in this State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

7. No private or special law shall be passed authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors, or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. Individuals or private corporations shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

9. No private, special or local bill shall be passed unless public notice of the intention to apply therefor, and of the general object thereof, shall have been previously given. The legislature, at the next session after the adoption hereof, and from time to time thereafter, shall prescribe the time and mode of giving such notice, the evidence thereof, and how such evidence shall be preserved.

10. The legislature may vest in the circuit courts, or courts of common pleas within the several counties of this State chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages and sale of mortgaged premises.

11. The legislature shall not pass private, local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases ; that is to say :

The legislature shall pass no special act conferring corporate powers, but they shall pass general laws under which corporations may be organized and corporate powers of every nature obtained, subject, nevertheless, to repeal or alteration at the will of the legislature.

12. Property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws, and by uniform rules, according to its true value.

Section VIII.

1. Members of the legislature shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation :

"I do solemnly swear [or affirm, as the case may be,] that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator [or member of the general assembly, as the case may be,] according to the best of my ability."

And members-elect of the senate or general assembly are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

2. Every officer of the legislature shall, before he enters upon his duties, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly promise and swear [or affirm] that I will faithfully, impartially and justly perform all the duties of the office of ———, to the best of my ability and understanding; that I will carefully preserve all records, papers, writings or property intrusted to me for safe-keeping by virtue of my office, and make such disposition of the same as may be required by law."

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor.
2. The governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this State. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the governor; but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen governor by the vote of a majority of the members of both houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be determined in such manner as the legislature shall direct by law. When a governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and at the places where the people shall respectively vote for members of the legislature.
3. The governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter; and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired; and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the governor during the last week of his said term.
4. The governor shall be not less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State seven years next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States or of this State.
5. The governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.
6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the State; he shall have power to convene the legislature, or the senate alone, whenever in his opinion public necessity requires it; he shall communicate by message to the legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the State, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both houses shall be presented to the governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it; if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that house, it shall become a law; but in neither house shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items while approving of the other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated, a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section in relation to bills not approved by the governor shall apply to cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

8. No member of congress, or person holding an office under the United States, or this State, shall exercise the office of governor; and in case the governor, or person administering the government shall accept any office under the United States or this State, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant. 54. No Senator, in speaking, shall mention a Senator then present by his name.

Special Orders.

55. When the hour shall have arrived for the consideration of a special order, the same shall be taken up, and the Senate shall proceed to consider it, unless it shall be postponed by the Senate.

56. The unfinished business in which the Senate shall have been engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the special orders of the day. (Rule 20.)

57. No concurrent resolution shall pass unless by the consent of a majority of the Senators elected.

Secret Session.

58. On a motion made and seconded to shut the doors of the Senate on the discussion of any business which may, in the opinion of a Senator, require secrecy, the President shall direct the chamber to be cleared, and during the discussion of such motion the doors shall remain shut.

Rules.

59. No standing rule or order of the Senate shall be suspended unless by the consent of two-thirds of the Senators elected, nor rescinded or amended but by the same number, and one day's notice shall be given of the motion for rescission or amendment.

Executive Session.

60. When nominations shall be made by the Governor to the Senate, they shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, be referred to appropriate committees; and the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

61. When acting on Executive business, the Senate shall be cleared of all persons except the Senators and Secretary.

62. All information or remarks concerning the character or qualifications of any person nominated by the Governor to office shall be kept a secret.

63. The Legislative and Executive proceedings of the Senate shall be kept in separate and distinct books.

64. All nominations approved by the Senate, or otherwise definitely acted on, shall be transmitted by the Secretary to the Governor, with the determination of the Senate thereon, from day to day, as such proceedings may occur; but no further extract from the Executive journal shall be furnished, published or otherwise communicated, except by special order of the Senate.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

RULES ADOPTED THIS YEAR.

Of the Meeting of the House.

1. Any member or members less than a quorum may meet and adjourn the House from day to day, when necessary.

2. Every member shall attend in his place precisely at the hour to which the House was last adjourned; and in case of neglect, he shall be subject to a reprimand from the Chair, unless excused by the House; nor shall any member absent himself from the House for more than the space of a quarter of an hour without leave previously obtained.

3. In case a less number of members than a quorum shall be present after the arrival of the hour to which the House stood adjourned, they are hereby authorized to send their Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, with a warrant duly executed, for any and all absent members, as the majority of such as are present may agree, and at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be rendered as the House, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient. Immediately after the appointment of the Standing Committees, the members shall arrange among themselves their several seats appropriated to their counties; and in case of disagreement, the same shall be decided by lot.

Of the Duties of the Speaker.

4. He shall take the chair at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and immediately call the members to order; and on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read, which may then be corrected by the House.

5. He shall preserve order and decorum, and in debate shall prevent personal reflections, and confine members to the question under discussion; but he shall not engage in any debate, nor propose his opinion on any question, without first calling on some member to occupy the chair. When two or more members rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.

6. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House, when demanded by any four members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

7. All questions before the House shall be stated by the Speaker, and distinctly put in the following form, to wit: "As many as are in favor of (the question) will say aye;" and after the affirmative is expressed, "Those of a contrary opinion, no." If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative; and in case of an equal division, the Speaker shall decide.

8. All Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House.

9. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the order of the House shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk. If the Speaker be absent, a less number of members than a quorum may appoint a Speaker pro tempore, who may sign any warrants, or perform any act requisite to bring in absent members.

10. He shall have a general direction of the hall, and he may name a member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond a second adjournment.

Of the Order of Business.

11. After the reading of the journal, the business of the first meeting of each day shall be conducted in the following manner, to wit:

I. Letters, petitions and memorials, remonstrances and accompanying documents may be presented and disposed of.

II. Reports of Committees may be read.

III. Original resolutions may be offered and considered; items of unfinished business referred; motions to reconsider and to appoint additional members of Committees made; and leave of absence, leave to withdraw documents, and leave to introduce bills asked.

Leave for Bills and to Introduce Bills.

IV. Bills and joint resolutions on a third reading may be taken up.

V. The House shall then proceed in the order of the day, preference being always given to the unfinished business of the previous sitting; after which bills and joint resolutions on a second reading shall be taken in their order; and the House, in its afternoon session, will proceed to business as though there had been no adjournment of its morning session, excepting that original resolutions, and leave to introduce bills of Committees, be the first business in the afternoon session; and shall, on demand of the majority, proceed with the order of the day.

12. The Clerk shall make a list of all public bills and joint resolutions. He shall keep a separate calendar of private bills. No bills for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing a charter for any corporation, other than a municipal corporation, shall be placed on the calendar of public bills. All bills, public and private, shall be numbered according to the time of their introduction into the House. They shall be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they were reported, or ordered to a third reading, as appears by the calendar; and the calendar shall be proceeded in until all the bills thereon are called up before the commencement of the calendar anew.

13. All messages shall be sent from this House to the Senate by the Clerk.

Of Decorum and Debate.

14. When a member is about to speak in debate, or communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the Speaker, confining himself to the question under debate, and avoiding personality.

15. If any member in debate transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain. The House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House, and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure of the House.

16. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

17. No member shall speak more than twice, or longer than five minutes each time, without leave of the House.

18. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the hall; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall anyone entertain private discourse; nor shall anyone, while a member is speaking, pass between him and the Chair.

19. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.

20. Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put, shall give his vote, unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced; any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief verbal statement of the reasons for such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

21. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the introducer, and, if called upon, he shall declare that it does not, in his opinion, contain any indecent or reproachful language, or any expressions of disrespect to the House, or any committee of the same.

22. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms, at all times, not to allow any person to smoke in the Assembly chamber.

On Motions.

23. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

24. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Clerk, when it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House and open to debate; but it may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

25. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but—

1. To adjourn.
2. A call of the House.
3. To lay on the table.
4. For the previous question.
5. To postpone indefinitely.
6. To postpone to a day certain.
7. To go into a Committee of the Whole on the pending subject immediately.
8. To commit to a Committee of the Whole.
9. To commit to a Standing Committee.
10. To commit to a Select Committee.
11. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are stated, and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

26. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or joint resolution shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

27. A motion to adjourn shall be always in order, except when the House is voting, or while a member is addressing the House, or immediately after the question to adjourn has been negatived; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so distinct that one being taken away from the rest may stand entire for the decision of the House; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

29. When any motion shall be made and seconded, the same shall, at the request of any two members, be entered on the Journal of the House.

30. When a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof, on the same day or on the next day of actual session of the House thereafter; all motions may be reconsidered, by a majority of the members present; but bills, to be reconsidered, must have the same majority that would be necessary to pass them; and such vote, on motion to reconsider, shall be by taking the yeas and nays.

31. When a blank is to be filled, the question shall first be taken on the largest sum, or greatest number, and remotest day.

32. The yeas and nays shall be entered on the Journal of the House, when moved for and seconded by five members, and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members, including the Speaker, shall be called alphabetically.

33. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be, if decided affirmatively, to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question; if decided in the negative, to leave the main question and amendments if any, under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking the question, or in some other manner. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

34. After the Clerk has commenced calling the yeas and nays on any question, no motion shall be received until a decision shall have been announced by the Chair.

39. In forming a Committee of the Whole House, the Speaker shall leave his chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the Speaker.

40. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed, as far as practicable, in Committee of the Whole, except that any member may speak oftener than twice on the same subject, but shall not speak a second time until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken; nor shall a motion for the previous question be made therein.

41. All amendments made in Committee of the Whole shall be noted by the Clerk, but need not be read by the Speaker on his resuming the chair, unless required by the House.

On Bills and Joint Resolutions.

42. All bills and joint resolutions shall be introduced by motion for leave, or on the report of a committee, and the member offering the same shall indorse his name on them, that the committee may confer with him should they so desire.

43. Every bill and joint resolution shall receive three separate readings in the House previous to its passage, but no bill or joint resolution shall be read twice on the same day, without special order of the House.

44. All bills and joint resolutions shall, after their first reading, be printed for the use of the members, and referred to their appropriate committees.

45. All bills and joint resolutions may be made the order of a particular day, on which day they shall be taken up in preference to others on the calendar; and the calendar of private bills shall not be taken up until the calendar of public bills shall have been gone through with.

46. All bills and joint resolutions, previous to their final passage by the House, all petitions, motions and reports, may be committed at the pleasure of the House. And the recommitment of any bill or resolution, when the same has been ordered to a third reading, shall have the effect of placing the same upon the second reading.

47. All bills and joint resolutions ordered to be engrossed shall be executed in a fair, round hand, and no amendment by way of rider shall be received to any bill or joint resolution on its third reading.

48. On a motion to strike out any item in the incidental bill, the question to be submitted to the House shall be, "Shall the item be retained in the bill?" and a majority of all the members of the House shall be necessary to adopt the same.

49. After the introduction of any private bill, the applicants for said bill shall, at their own expense, furnish the usual number of copies for the use of the members, unless the printing thereof be dispensed with by a special order of the House.

50. On the question of the final passage of all bills and joint resolutions, the yeas and nays shall be entered on the journal of the House.

53. When an Assembly bill is returned amended by the Senate, the report thereof by the Secretary of the Senate shall be taken as the first reading, and the same be entitled to a second reading, without a motion for that purpose; after its second reading, the question shall be, "Shall the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. — have a third reading?" If ordered to a third reading, the amendments shall be read, but these readings shall be on different days; the question shall then be, "Will the House of Assembly concur in the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. —?" upon which question the votes shall be by yeas and nays. If concurred in by a majority of the whole House, the bill shall be re-engrossed, the amendments embodied therein, and the re-engrossed bill examined and reported upon by the Committee on Engrossed Bills, and read in open Assembly, to the end that it may be

58. Every bill amended in the House, after its report by the committee to which it was referred upon introduction, shall, when ordered to be engrossed and have a third reading, be delivered to the Committee on Bill Revision, whose duty it shall be to examine the same, and if it be found that such amendment agrees with the context the bill shall then be engrossed. If in the opinion of the committee such amendment is, as to form, improper, they shall report to the House with such recommendation as they think fit. Such report shall be made within two days from the receipt of the bill.

59. That hereafter any motion or resolution which will result in relieving a standing committee of a bill referred to it, shall not be entertained unless one day's notice shall be given the House of the introduction of such motion or resolution.

The said committee shall report on the day of presentation to the Governor, which time shall also be carefully entered on the journal of each House.

CONSTITUTIONAL COMMISSION

OF 1873.

On April 4th, 1873, the Legislature passed a concurrent resolution empowering the Governor to appoint, by and with the advice of the Senate, a commission of two persons from each Congressional District, to suggest and propose amendments to the State Constitution for submission to and consideration by the next two Legislatures, and afterwards to be submitted to a vote of the people.

On April 24th, of the same year, Governor Parker nominated the following gentlemen, who were duly confirmed by the Senate:

First District—Benjamin F. Carter, Woodbury; Samuel H. Grey, Camden. Second District—Mercer Beasley, Trenton; John C. Ten Eyck, Mount Holly. Third District—Robert S. Green, Elizabeth; John F. Babcock, New Brunswick. Fourth District—Martin Ryerson and Jacob L. Swayze, both of Newton. Fifth District—Augustus W. Cutler, Morristown; Benjamin Buckley, Paterson. Sixth District—Theodore Runyon and John W. Taylor, both of Newark. Seventh District—Abraham O. Zabriskie and Robert Gilchrist, both of Jersey City.

Shortly afterwards Chief Justice Mercer Beasley declined to serve, and Philemon Dickinson, of Trenton, was appointed in his stead. Martin Ryerson resigned and Joseph Thompson, of Somerset, was appointed to fill the vacancy. Chancellor Theodore Runyon also declined and George J. Ferry, of Orange, was appointed in his stead. Ex-Chancellor Zabriskie was unanimously elected president of the Commission, and upon his decease, which occurred in a short time afterwards, Dudley S. Gregory, of Jersey City, was appointed to fill the vacancy in the Seventh District. John C. Ten Eyck was elected president, vice Zabriskie, deceased. The secretaries were Joseph L. Naar and Edward J. Anderson, both of Trenton. Subsequently Robert Gilchrist resigned and William Brinkerhoff, of Jersey City, was appointed in his place. John W. Taylor also resigned and Algernon S. Hubbell, of Newark, was appointed in his place.

The first session of the Commission was held on May 8th, 1873, and the last on December 23d, of the same year. The amendments submitted were partially adopted by the two succeeding Legislatures, and were ratified by a vote of the people at a special election held on September 7th, 1875.

CONSTITUTIONAL COMMISSION OF 1894.

In pursuance of a Joint Resolution of the Legislature, approved on May 17th, 1894, "for the appointment of Commissioners to report amendments of the system of jurisprudence of this State, and provide for the election of certain officers by the people," Governor Werts sent the following nominations to the Senate, all of which were confirmed:

Morrow, Newark.

Messrs. Hobart and Balbach declined to serve on the Commission, and their places were filled by the appointment of Eugene Emley, of Paterson, and E. Cortlandt Drake, of Newark.

On Tuesday, June 5th, the Commission met in the Senate Chamber, at Trenton, and organized by the election of Samuel H. Grey as President; George C. Ludlow, Vice President, and Joseph L. Naar, of Trenton, Secretary. The last session of the Commission was held on September 25th. Several amendments were suggested by the Commission and submitted, through the Governor, to the Legislature, none of which were adopted by that body.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

This edifice, a massive structure, erected at sundry times and various periods, is located on West State street, at the corner of Delaware street, running thence westerly along State street to the grounds of the late ex-Chancellor Green, and southerly to the Water Power. The location is a good one, and although the style of the building is not modern, yet it answers the purposes for which it was intended, even if it does not present a very imposing appearance.

The seat of Government was fixed at Trenton by an act of the Legislature, approved November 25th, 1790. James Cooper, Thomas Lowery, James Ewing, Maskell Ewing, George Anderson, James Mott and Moore Furman were appointed commissioners to select, purchase or accept so much land as was needed, and to erect thereon suitable buildings for the use of the Legislature. They purchased the present site, containing about three and three-quarters acres—a frontage on Second street (now West State street) of 247 feet and 6 inches, and a depth from the front to low water line of the Delaware river of 666 feet—at a cost of £250 5s. The old State House was a plain, bare-looking, rough-cast building, and was erected at a cost of £3,992 3s. ½d. By an act of March 4th, 1795, a building was erected to serve as an office for the Secretary of State, and for the preservation of the public records, at a cost of £620 19s. 10d. Numerous improvements and repairs were made, and on March 3d, 1806, an act was passed appointing commissioners to make certain repairs to the State House, to provide and hang a suitable bell, &c. This was done, and the bell was used for informing the members of both houses, as well as the courts, of the hour of meeting. The bell was eventually discarded, and an American flag substituted, which waves from the building unto this day, when the Legislature is in session, and upon holidays and State occasions. In 1848, the State House was altered by the removal of the rough-casting, and changing the front to the style of the Mercer County Court House, placing neat porticoes over the front and rear entrances, and erecting two additional buildings adjoining the main one, as offices for the Clerks of the Chancery and Supreme Courts. The rotunda was also erected, and the grounds fenced, graded, laid out and shade trees planted, all at a cost of $27,000. The commissioners under whose directions the work was completed, were Samuel R. Gummere, Samuel R. Hamilton and Stacy A. Paxson. In 1863, '64 and '65, appropriations were made and expended in building additions for the State Library, Executive Chambers, &c. In 1871, Charles S. Olden, Thomas J. Stryker and Lewis Perrine were appointed commissioners to cause a suitable addition to be built—more commodious apartments for the Senate and Assembly, &c. The sum of $50,000 was appropriated, and the buildings for the Legislature were ready for occupancy in time for the meeting of the Legislature of 1872. In 1872, $120,000 was appropriated for completing the building, $3,000 for fitting up the Executive Chamber, $4,000 for fitting up the Chancery and Supreme Court rooms, and $2,000 for fitting up the offices on the first floor of the east wing. In 1873, the sum of $43,000 was appropriated for the improvement of the front of the building, completing unfinished repairs and improvements, and for fitting up the Library, &c. On March 18th, 1875, the sum of $15,000 was appropriated for the purpose of putting a new three-story front to the building, and to fit up offices on the second floor for the Clerks of the Court of Chancery and Supreme Court, and for providing a suitable museum for geological specimens, and the battle-flags of New Jersey volunteer regiments, carried during the war of the Rebellion.

On March 21st, 1885, the front portion was destroyed by fire, and the Legislature appropriated $50,000 for rebuilding, and, in 1886, an additional appropriation of $225,000 was granted.

The new building was finished in 1889. It is of rectangular shape and of the Renaissance style of architecture, with a frontage of one hundred and sixty feet on State street, a depth of sixty-seven feet, and three and a half stories high, with a rotunda thirty-nine feet across, which connects the new section of the Capitol with the original part. The rotunda is surmounted by a dome one hundred and forty-five feet high.

The building has about sixty feet more frontage than the former one, and approaches about ten feet nearer the street.

The walls are constructed of solid, fire-proof, brick masonry, faced with a light-colored stone from Indiana, known as Salem Oolitic, with foundations and trimmings of New Jersey freestone, from the Prallsville quarries, in Hunterdon county. The portico, door-head and trimmings about the door are of the same material. The portico, with balcony, is supported by massive pillars of polished granite and surmounted by the coat of arms of the State.

The apartments used for offices are very spacious, fitted throughout in the most approved modern style, and each department is supplied with one or more of the finest fire-proof vaults. The first and second stories are set aside for offices, and the entire third story is used for the State Library.

The old State Library apartments have been improved and extended, and are now used as offices for the Attorney-General, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. A new story was added, which is used for the Geological Museum and State offices.

In 1891, a new Assembly Chamber was erected. The old one was too small and poorly ventilated, and besides, there was a lack of suitable committee rooms. The Legislature of 1891 passed a Joint Resolution, which was approved on March 20th, authorizing the Governor "to provide a suitable chamber and committee rooms for the use of the General Assembly of this State," &c., and also, "to make such additions and alterations as will afford the necessary accommodations for the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, or for other State offices, and sufficient money is hereby appropriated for that purpose, to be paid by the Treasurer of this State on the warrant of the Comptroller, after approval by the Governor."

The new chamber was built by James W. Lanning, of Trenton, from plans prepared by James Moylan, of Jersey City, and under the superintendency of Bernard J. Ford, of Newark. It covers the site of the former chamber, and extends beyond it to Delaware street on the east and to the water power on the south. It has a frontage on Delaware street of 120 feet and a depth of 75 feet. The exterior finish and design of the building are similar to the adjoining portion of the Capitol. The foundation is of brown stone, from the Stockton quarries, and the trimmings of light Indiana stone. The interior is finished in Trenton tile, quartered oak and Italian statuary marble. It is a fire-proof building throughout, and is specially ventilated. The committee rooms are ample and convenient, and the interior design, arrangement and finish make it a model legislative chamber. It cost the State $140,500. The cost of the steam heating and ventilating systems was about $25,000.

The other new addition to the Capitol provides a consultation room for the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors and Appeals and a private room for the Governor, a room for the Museum of the Geological Survey, and other offices, and cost $34,500.

An electric light apparatus was also placed in the Capitol, which cost $23,000. Every department in the building is now lighted by electricity.

A new Otis elevator has been placed in the front part of the building, which gives easy access to all the upper floors.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

This valuable collection of books is located on the third floor of the State Capitol. The old saying, "Great oaks from little acorns grow," most appropriately applies to this institution.

The first library of the State was a case ordered to be procured by Maskell Ewing, Clerk of the House of Assembly, for the keeping and preservation of such books as belonged to the Legislature. It was ordered by a resolution passed March 18th, 1796. This was the nucleus of the present extensive library. On February 18th, 1804, William Coxe, of Burlington; Ezra Darby, of Essex, and John A. Scudder, of Monmouth, were appointed a Committee on Rules, and to make a catalogue; they reported that there were 168 volumes belonging to the State, and presented a code of seven rules, which was adopted. On February 10th, 1813, an act (the first one) was passed, entitled "An act concerning the State Library." Up to 1822 it appears that the Clerk of the House had charge of the books, as Librarian, and, on November 16th, 1822, an act was passed for the appointment of a State Librarian, annually, by joint meeting. In 1846, on April 10th, an act was passed making the term of office three years. The Law Library at that time belonged to the members of the Law Library Association. The only persons allowed the use of the Library were members of the Association, the Chancellor, and the judges of the several courts. Stacy G. Potts was Treasurer and Librarian of the Association. The Law Library was kept in the Supreme Court room until 1837, when the Legislature authorized the State Librarian to fit up a room adjoining the Library for the care and reception of the books and papers belonging to the State Library. Thus the two Libraries were consolidated. On March 13th, 1872, $5,000 per year for three years was appropriated for the Library by the Legislature, and by the act of March 15th, 1876, the sum of $2,500 was appropriated for finishing and refurnishing the Library room. In 1890, the Library was removed to the third story of the new part of the Capitol.

THE STATE ARSENAL.

The building now used as the State Arsenal was formerly the old State Prison. It is situate on Second street, in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton, and has on its front the following inscription :

LABOR, SILENCE, PENITENCE.

THE PENITENTIARY HOUSE,

ERECTED BY LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY.

RICHARD HOWELL, GOVERNOR.

IN THE XXII. YEAR OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE,

THAT THOSE WHO ARE FEARED FOR THEIR CRIMES,

In the messages of Governors P. D. Vroom and S. L. Southard, recommending the erection of the new prison, it was proposed that the old one be converted into an Arsenal for the safe keeping of the arms and military property of the State, which, previous to that time, had been kept in the old State Bank, corner of Warren and Bank streets, with accoutrements and camp and garrison equipage at the State House. After the removal of the State convicts from the old prison, permission was given to the county of Mercer to occupy it as a jail until its jail, then in course of completion, was finished, and when it was again vacated it was converted into an arsenal.

Among the stores, &c., at the Arsenal are one bronze gun, French, of the date of 1758; two bronze guns, English, four-pounders, and two iron six-pounders. There is also one gun captured at the battle of Trenton, December 26th, 1776, and two guns captured at Yorktown, October 19th, 1781. There are also a large quantity of fire-arms, ammunition, ordnance, tents, clothing, blankets, &c.

NEW JERSEY STATE HOSPITAL.

TRENTON.

This institution is located in Ewing township, in Mercer county, about two miles northwest of Trenton, on the right bank of the Delaware river. The buildings are constructed of reddish sandstone, obtained from quarries near the hospital, and are located on an elevation of about seventy-five feet above the river. The front of the Main or Administration Building is ornamented by a handsome porch of Ionic architecture, designed by the celebrated Notman, from which may be obtained one of the finest landscape views in the State.

In 1844, after repeated and unsuccessful attempts to cause action to be taken by the Legislature for the building of a State institution for the special care and treatment of the insane, a commission was appointed, chiefly through the earnest efforts of Dr. Lyndon A. Smith, of Essex, and Dr. Lewis Condict, of Morris, and the eminent philanthropist, Miss D. L. Dix, to select a site. An appropriation of $35,000 was made to purchase the land, and to commence the erection of the building. The present site was selected by the commissioners from among many that were offered in various sections of the State because of the large spring of excellent water found on the place. This spring was developed, and furnished a daily supply of about one-half millions of gallons of pure water for many years. In the severe drought of 1880 the supply was greatly diminished, falling off nearly two hundred and fifty thousand gallons, and it has never regained its full and former capacity. The spring is now supplemented by driven wells, three in number, and each one over three hundred feet deep. These with the spring, are capable of supplying daily a half million gallons of excellent water. In 1896 a standpipe for storing water and securing a fire pressure was erected, with a capacity of five hundred thousand gallons.

Work was commenced on the main building in November of 1845, and the hospital was opened for the reception of patients on the 15th day of May, 1848. Numerous additions have been made from time to time to the building, increasing its capacity from fifty patients, in 1848, to eight hundred and fifty patients, in 1898.

In 1887, the Legislature passed an act appropriating $100,000 for providing additional accommodations. The new building is a handsome structure of red sandstone, and similar to that used in the main building. This is five hundred feet long, three stories in height, and capable of accommodating three hundred patients, one hundred and fifty of each sex. The building is designed to accommodate the chronic incurable class, and was a great relief from the overcrowded state that existed in the main building prior to its completion. The building was completed within the appropriation, and opened for the reception of patients in the month of October, 1889.

Since the opening of the institution in May, 1848, there have been received and treated 9,328 patients, 4,693 men and 4,635 women. At the close of the fiscal year, October 31st, 1898, there were under care in the hospital 1,119 patients, 555 men and 564 women. Much has been done for the comfort and pleasure of the patients. A green-house has been erected for the purpose of furnishing plants and flowers for the patients' corridors, handsome pictures adorn the walls, and everything about the hospital presents a comfortable and homelike appearance.

The institution possesses a library, one of the largest, if not the largest, in this country connected with a hospital for the insane. The books are accessible to all members of the household. They have been freely used, and do much to relieve the monotony of many an hour of hospital life. The library now consists of about 4,000 volumes, and is the result of the bequest of a former nurse (Anne Robinson), who, by will, bequeathed her earnings for several years as a nurse and attendant in this hospital. She made the bequest, as she herself expressed it when making her will, for the purpose of purchasing books to be used for the pleasure and benefit of those to whom she had, for so many years, endeavored to minister.

During the year 1898, a handsome amusement room, capable of seating about four hundred, was finished; also, a large and commodious chapel, in which religious exercises are held from time to time; various clergymen, without regard to denominational preference, officiate every Sunday. The new chapel is capable of seating about five hundred patients.

NEW JERSEY STATE HOSPITAL.

MORRIS PLAINS.

In order to relieve the crowded condition of the Trenton Asylum, and make further provision for the increasing number of the insane, commissioners were appointed by the Legislature of 1871 to select a site and build an institution in the northern portion of the State. About 408 acres of land were purchased, at a cost of $78,732.36, in Hanover township, Morris county, and a site for the institution was selected on the foot hills of the Watnoug range of the Blue Ridge Mountains, at an elevation of 520 feet above the sea level. The location is ideal for an institution of its kind, being unsurpassed in this particular by any similar institution in this country. A magnificent view of the surrounding country is commanded. The air is cool and balmy in summer, and crisp and stimulating in winter.

The institution is a four-story building, of granite quarried on the premises, and trimmed with brown sandstone. The total length is 1,243 feet, and the depth, from the front of the main center building to the rear of the extreme wings, is 542 feet, constituting at present the largest institution for the insane under one roof in the world, and one of the finest buildings of its kind in the United States.

The building was planned and constructed to accommodate 800 patients, but at present has a population of more than 1,250 insane. The total cost was about $2,250,000. It was first occupied by patients on August 17th, 1876.

The Legislature of 1895 appropriated $125,000 for additional buildings and improvements. The foundation of the new building was laid to accommodate 600 patients, and provide suitable laboratory facilities for the further prosecution of scientific work. An appropriation was also made for the extension of the water-supply, and an additional tract of land was purchased, bringing the total extent of the hospital's property up to about 720 acres. On a portion of this land an additional reservoir, with a capacity of 6,500,000 gallons, has since been built. The Legislature of 1898 appropriated $150,000, enabling the management to give out contracts looking to the completion of the administration portion of the building, the north wing, associate dining-rooms, amusement hall, and pathological laboratories.

The barns and outbuildings belonging to the institution are in excellent condition, and the farm is in a high state of cultivation.

THE NEW JERSEY STATE NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

These schools are the property of the State, and are located at the junction of Perry street and Clinton avenue, Trenton. There are two buildings, the one for the schools located on the west side of Clinton avenue, the other, containing the boarding halls and dormitories, situated on the east side of the avenue. These schools were established in 1855 by an act of the Legislature. The purpose of the Normal School was defined to be "the training and education of its pupils in such branches of knowledge, and such methods of teaching and governing, as will qualify them for teachers of our common schools." The Model School was designed to be a place where "the pupils of the Normal School shall have opportunity to observe and practice the modes of instruction and discipline inculcated in the Normal School, and in which pupils may be prepared for the Normal School."

The following figures show the original cost and present valuation of the Normal School property :

STATE REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

This institution is situate at Jamesburg, Middlesex county, and was authorized by an act of the Legislature, passed April 6th, 1865. Juvenile criminals between the ages of eight and sixteen years are here cared for, and every influence tending to their reformation is brought to bear upon them. Numerous additions have been made to the original building, to which is attached a farm of 490 acres. The first pupils were received July 6th, 1867.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

This institution is located on the line of the Trenton Branch of the Delaware and Bound Brook Railroad, in Ewing township, near the Trenton Lunatic Asylum, and is located on a farm of about 79 acres of land. A substantial building was erected, at a cost of $23,334, and other improvements made, which bring the value of the place, with furniture, &c., up to $37,740. Previous to the erection of the new building, the school was at "Pine Grove," in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton. This place had been leased so as to afford room for persons sentenced under the act of April 4th, 1871.

THE STATE PRISON.

The New Jersey State Prison, situated on the block enclosed by Federal, Third, Cass and Second streets, in the city of Trenton, is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Its erection was authorized by an act of the Legislature passed February 13th, 1832, and it was completed in the year 1836, having 150 cells, at a cost of $179,657.11. It was built of red sand-stone, from the Ewing quarries, and the style of its architecture is Egyptian, having four Egyptian columns in front of the main entrance, on Third street. It consists of a main building, used as a residence for the Keeper and as reception rooms and offices. From time to time the prison has been enlarged, and although there is not sufficient room to afford separate confinement for each prisoner, as required by law, the provisions of the act are carried out as far as possible. The rules and regulations now in force have brought the internal affairs of the institution, as to cleanliness, discipline, victualing, &c., to a much higher standard than was ever before reached, and a visit thereto will convince the visitor that the management is as perfect as can be.

On March 4th, 1847, $5,000 was appropriated to build an additional wing to the original building. On March 25th, 1852, $15,000 was granted for the erection of a new wing for hospital purposes. On March 22d, 1860, the sum of $17,000 was voted for the purpose of building an additional wing for cells, and on February 16th, 1861, a further sum of $2,243.01 was appropriated to complete the same. On April 16th, 1868, $6,000 was appropriated for the building of an additional wing to provide room for female convicts. An act passed April 2d, 1869, provided for the appointment of commissioners to extend the grounds of the prison to the wall of the State Arsenal, to build an additional wing and work shops, and made an appropriation of $50,000 for that purpose, and in the same month $9,734 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the wing of the female department. On April 4th, 1871, the sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the new or east wing, and on April 4th, 1872, a further sum of $28,700 was appropriated for the completion of the same. March 3d, 1874, $12,000 was voted for the construction of gas works for the supply of illuminating gas for the prison. On March 8th, 1877, the sum of $100,000 was appropriated for the enlargement of the prison and the purchase of a burial ground for deceased convicts. The north wing was remodeled out of this last appropriation, and a burial ground purchased. The Legislature of 1895 appropriated $150,000 for the enlargement and improvement of the prison.

Previous to the year 1798 there was no State Prison, and prisoners were confined in the county jails. On March 1st, 1797, Jonathan Doane was appointed by an act of the Legislature as an agent to purchase a lot of land from Peter Hunt, situate at Lamberton, containing six and a half acres, and to erect suitable buildings thereon. This was done at an expense of £9,852 Os. 3d., and what is now the State Arsenal, at Second and Cass streets, is the result. Solitary confinement was not practiced previous to 1836, in which year the old prison was vacated and the present one occupied.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

This institution is located in Kearny township, Hudson county, to which place it was removed from Newark in 1888. It was organized under a joint resolution of the Legislature approved April 12th, 1862. The Home in Newark was opened July 4th, 1866. The Legislatures of 1886 and 1887 appropriated $175,000 for the erection of a new Home, under the direction of Commissioners appointed by the Legislature. The present site, consisting of 17½ acres, was selected, and six new and commodious buildings were erected thereon. The Home has a frontage of 600 feet on the Passaic river, and contains over three hundred inmates.

NEW JERSEY SCHOOL FOR DEAF-MUTES.

This institution, which is located at Trenton, is a part of the public school system of the State, and is open to deaf residents of the State between the ages of eight and twenty-one years. The pupils are instructed in the branches of common-school education, and are also trained in some handicraft. Speech is taught to all who can acquire it, and with such success that in some classes it becomes the principal means of communication.

The industrial department is larger and better equipped than in most schools of this kind. From the printing office is issued monthly a paper, the Silent Worker, which, in point of mechanical execution and of quality of contents, ranks as the best issued from any institution in the country. All the work on this paper is performed by pupils of the school.

The wood-working department, under the charge of a graduate of a technical school of high rank, has a course in which theory and practice are united in an unusual degree.

A course of kindergarten work, especially adapted to the deaf child, has been worked out in the school, and has been followed by some of the best schools of the kind in this country.

A building for hospital purposes, designed in accordance with the best modern practice and ample to meet any possible need, has been partially completed during the year.

The attendance of pupils has risen from 125 in June, 1896, until at the present time it is about 150.

The school possesses a well chosen library, which at present contains about 1,500 volumes, and is rapidly growing.

THE STATE INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN, VINELAND.

This institution was established under an act of March 27th, 1888, with Prof. S. O. Garrison, who drafted the original law, as the first superintendent. On November 15th of the same year he was succeeded by Mary J. Dunlap, M. D. It is one of the most admirably situated public buildings in the State. Lying opposite the New Jersey Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, and facing Landis avenue, Vineland's main street of several miles in length, it enjoys facilities of the city yet surrounded by acres of fruit, vineyards and orchards. The main building is well arranged, and a large annex was erected in the winter of 1891-'92. It is a home for females, of whom there are nearly 100. Extensive additions have recently been made, giving hospital and other accommodations.

NEW JERSEY TRAINING SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN, VINELAND.

S. OLIN GARRISON, PRINCIPAL.

This public institution is an outgrowth of a private one, which Prof. S. Olin Garrison established in Millville, Cumberland county, on September 1st, 1887. It was opened at Vineland, on March 1st, 1888, with an enrollment of ten inmates. Adjacent properties were soon acquired and a handsome building, costing about $18,000, was erected in 1890-'91. There are nine cottages, besides a hospital, large barn, shops and manual training-rooms, located on a farm of 120 acres. The school has a fine assembly hall, seating over 600, and also containing seven (7) school-rooms, an armory, drill-room and a gymnasium.

The plan and scope of training and education by the school, require fourteen teachers in English, Kindergarten, Military, Music, Physical Culture and Manual Trades departments, thereby indicating the special and comprehensive fields of instruction. There is also a custodial department for the idiotic, and a hospital department for epileptics.

The property is worth over $150,000, real and personal, with a debt of only $8,000. Besides very good property acquisitions at low cost, at least $50,000 have been donated to the school since its organization, to aid in the current expenses, in improvements and new buildings.

There were, in 1898, over 200 boys and girls enjoying the advantages of this most excellent School.

THE NEW JERSEY STATE VILLAGE FOR EPILEPTICS.

SKILLMAN, SOMERSET COUNTY.

This Village is located on the "Maplewood Farm," containing about 187 acres, one mile and a half from Skillman station, Somerset county, and on the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. The location is beautiful and most admirably adapted for the purposes of the institution. It was purchased for the sum of $11,500. The Managers of the institution have secured an option on an adjacent farm of 215 acres for $8,000. It will require 400 acres, altogether, to make the project practicable. There are three dwelling-houses on the "Maplewood Farm." The Village was formally opened on November 1st, 1898, for the admission of 20 male epileptics. The Legislature of 1898 appropriated $15,000 for the purchase of a site and the equipment and maintenance of the Village. As the Legislature provides the buildings, all epileptics of either sex, over five years of age, will be admitted.

The success of this meritorious undertaking is, in a large measure, due to the indefatigable efforts made by Professor S. Olin Garrison, of Vineland, in its behalf. For a number of years he agitated the subject, and at last an act was passed by the Legislature of 1898, and was signed by Acting Governor Voorhees, making the necessary provisions for the establishment of the institution. A similar act was passed by the Legislature of 1896, but it was vetoed by Governor Griggs. Senator Stokes, of Cumberland, who had charge of the legislation, showed great zeal in the task he had undertaken.

According to a report made by a legislative commission appointed in 1895 to investigate the subject of epileptics, it was then estimated that there were over 2,000 such afflicted persons in the State. The two State Hospitals for the Insane then contained 168 epileptics. Their presence in those institutions was considered alike injurious to the insane and the epileptic. The commission made an exhaustive report, and concluded by strongly recommending the establishment of a Village for those afflicted people.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

REPUBLICAN.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, Thursday, September 22, 1898.)

The representatives of the Republican party of New Jersey, assembled in convention, September 22, 1898, hereby resolve and declare :

That we affirm our adhesion and devotion to the fundamental principles of the National Republican party as set forth in the platform adopted at the St. Louis convention in 1896.

That we specially declare our undying opposition to any proposition to debase the national currency, a proposition so repugnant to the honest voters of New Jersey that when it was presented to them in all its bare iniquity in 1896, they promptly buried it under an unprecedented majority of 87,000, and declared in favor of representatives of national honor and honesty, McKinley and Hobart.

We heartily approve and endorse the administration of President McKinley. His treatment of domestic questions has more than fulfilled all expectations, and the wisdom of his foreign policy and the firmness and dignity with which it has been maintained have won for him not only the confidence and approbation of our own people, but the highest respect of the civilized world. Involved without due preparation in a war in the interests of humanity, he pursued a course which commanded united support at home and effectively silenced the assaults of interested diplomacy abroad. In three months this conflict was brought to a practical end with a smaller percentage of loss from battle and disease than in any war of modern times, and with the result of freeing a suffering people from a reign of cruelty and oppression; of acquiring new and valuable territory; of opening to our people new avenues of trade and commerce; furnishing new outlets and demands for the agricultural and industrial products of our people, and, above all, providing millions of our fellow-creatures an open door to those blessings of education and of civil and religious liberty which have for a hundred years followed the advance of the American flag.

We take a special pride as Jerseymen that the eminent citizen whom this State gave to the national administration, elected in 1896, has been so singularly capable and potential in the office of Vice-President, and has invested that station with rare dignity and influence.

We approve the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands, and view this act as an important step in the advance of American civilization.

We repose entire confidence in the wisdom and patriotism of the President, and the commission appointed by him to negotiate such a treaty of peace as will meet the just expectations of our people, by insisting on an adjustment in which the interests of this Republic, and of civilization and humanity, will be secured, as far as possible, as the fruits of the valor of our soldiers and sailors in the war with Spain. Called to the Presidency in a time of national bankruptcy, caused by the administration of the Democratic party, William McKinley was commissioned by the American people to restore confidence, to re-establish a tariff system under which American labor and capital might recover from the blighting effects of the Wilson bill; to save our financial system from the dangers of Bryanism, so that American enterprise might go boldly forward to the development of our resources. Under his administration business has revived, labor has found employment, and prosperity is returning. These things have been accomplished notwithstanding the fact that in his effort to execute the people's mandate the President has been shackled with a hostile Senate. How much more can be accomplished if for the remainder of his term the President and his administration have the support and sympathy of a Congress friendly in both branches.

During the present Congress this State has enjoyed a commanding influence by having a Republican Senator and a delegation in the Lower House unanimously of the same faith. They have been most diligent and successful in their labor for the best interests of our State and nation, and we cordially indorse their work and thank them in the name of the people of New Jersey.

That we heartily indorse the conduct of our State affairs by Governor John W. Griggs during his incumbency, which illustrated the highest ideal of an executive and fully met the expectations of a purified administration which his election raised in the people of New Jersey, and we hold it to be a subject of pride to our State that he has been summoned by the President to assume as a patriotic duty the charge of one of the most important and responsible departments of the National Government. The brilliant record he has made as Attorney-General of the United States during an unexpected and most trying emergency, has given our State renewed occasion for gratification.

We heartily indorse and approve the brief but brilliant administration of Acting Governor F. M. Voorhees. Coming to the executive chair from a long experience in the legislative branch of the government, he was peculiarly fitted to discharge the civil duties thus unexpectedly thrust upon him, and it is known of all men that his diligence, fidelity, and a sincere desire for the public welfare, have characterized his every executive act. We especially commend him for his untiring devotion to the interests of our soldiers. Whether encamped in this or in other States, they never were beyond the Acting Governor's watchful eye nor outside the zone of his efficient care.

We tender our thanks to the citizens of this and other States who, inspired by a patriotic impulse, have left their homes and occupations to sustain the arms of the State and the nation. We recognize their devotion to duty, whether in camp or on the field of combat; and we pledge ourselves to the full and liberal recognition of all the proper claims of our patriotic heroes, and if by the misconduct or incompetency of any officials their health or their lives have been unnecessarily sacrificed or endangered, we feel assured that the President and his Constitutional advisers will make such investigations as will bring the offenders, regardless of past or present political affiliation, to punishment.

We recognize the special revenue law as a necessary war measure, and recommend its repeal as soon as will be justifiable by the reduced expenses of the government.

Three years ago we appealed to the voters of New Jersey to unite in rescuing the State from the grasp of a political oligarchy which had brought every department and institution of the State, the internal affairs of our cities and towns, and even the morals of this Commonwealth, into subserviency to their ends.

They squandered the State revenue by the creation of useless offices and by falsifying bills of supply, and sought to prostitute every branch of the State government to partisan and personal purposes. With splendid majorities the people of almost every county in the State responded to our appeal and committed the legislative and executive branches of the government to the care of the Republican party. We promised them a clean honest and economical administration of State government, in the interest and for the welfare of the whole people. This promise has been faithfully kept. Having blotted from the statute-books the laws under which the most infamous form of race-track gambling had brought ignominy and disgrace upon the State, we have embodied in the Constitution an amendment forever prohibiting a re-enactment of such laws; we have banished partisanship from statutes and delivered the several State institutions, boards and commissions from political control. In offices of the State, and the larger counties, we have substituted reasonable salaries for the fee system, and thus covered into the public treasury, for the benefit of the people, large sums which were formerly used for political purposes.

We have doubled the annual appropriation for the support of our free school system. We have relieved the taxpayers of the several counties by distributing amongst them annually more than $200,000 of the tax received by the State from railroad corporations.

We have increased the appropriation for good roads. We have made liberal appropriations for the support and proper care of the insane, the feeble-minded and other unfortunate defectives of the State. We have paid off over half a million of the public debt. We have expended in the necessary construction and extension of State institutions over $1,000,000, and, notwithstanding these disbursements for the public benefit, we are able, through a rigid and judicious economy, to show an increase in the balance in the State Treasury of $200,000, as compared with 1893, the year in which the voters of New Jersey set the seal of condemnation upon Democratic misrule.

We have codified and condensed many of the cumbersome and complex State statutes, and this important and necessary work will be continued to completion.

The full list of the beneficent legislative acts since the State passed under Republican control is too long to be recited here, but the statute-books and public records of the State are filled with evidences of the faithfulness with which we have redeemed the pledges made three years ago.

We here and now renew these pledges. We promise a continuance of the policy of rigid economy in every department of the State government, liberal appropriations for purposes of public necessity and welfare, continued opposition to extravagant and wasteful use of the public money, legislation for the benefit and elevation of the laboring people, for the promotion of the agricultural and industrial interests of the State and the general good and well being of all.

The time has again come for the people of the State to rally around the standard of good government, and we appeal to all the patriotic voters of New Jersey to give their voices and votes to avert dire calamity, which would result from relegating the State again to the hands of the political jobbers and unscrupulous ringsters who are seeking to regain their lost control.

DEMOCRATIC.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, Wednesday, September 28, 1898.)

We, the representatives of the Democratic party in State Convention assembled, re-affirming our devotion to all the great and vital principles of the Democratic party on National issues and believing, however, that the coming State campaign should be fought out on State issues, and for the redemption of the State from Republican extravagance, corruption and misrule, declare the paramount issues in the coming campaign to be :

Equal taxation, home rule, honest State and municipal government, the abolition of useless and expensive State commissions, the reduction of the large present expenses of the State government to the economical standard maintained for years under Democratic rule, the reduction of official salaries, the abolishment of the fee system and the placing of all officials on a salary basis, the enactment of laws in the interest of organized labor and for the protection of the wage-workers of the State, the repeal of all laws that abridge the right of juries to fix the amount of damages in cases where the death of a person is caused by wrongful act, and the release of the administration of State affairs from the control of corporations and their restoration to the authority of the people.

We demand that the tax laws of this State be amended to provide for the equal taxation of all property, real and personal, not used for religious, charitable or educational purposes, in accordance with the mandates of the Constitution, which says :

“Property shall be assessed for taxes under general laws, and by uniform rules, according to its true value.”

We charge the Republican party, which has had complete control of all branches of the State government during the past three years, with having violated the pledges it made to the people before being entrusted with power.

We charge the Republican party with having created useless and needless State commissions at the expense of thousands of dollars to the people of this State, and pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of laws that will secure their abolishment.

We charge that the Republican party has been guilty of gross extravagance in the administration of State affairs, and that the expenses of the State government under Republican rule have been increased nearly half a million dollars annually and are now largely in excess of what they should be for an honest and economical administration of the government, and beyond the annual revenues of the State by thousands of dollars. We pledge the Democratic party to a reduction of expenses and an economical and business-like administration of the affairs of the State.

We charge that the salaries of public officials are far in excess of what they should be, and pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of laws that will secure the reduction of the same.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of laws that will abolish the fee system in all State and county offices and place all such officials on a salary basis, thereby saving to the people of this State thousands of dollars, which will revert to the public treasury instead of the pocket of the office-holder.

We condemn the action of the recent Republican Legislatures which refused almost every request made for legislation in the interest of organized labor and repealed acts passed by Democratic Legislatures for the protection of the wage-workers of New Jersey ; and we pledge our party to give proper consideration to the views adopted by the councils of organized labor.

We charge Foster M. Voorhees, the Republican candidate for Governor, with being an enemy of organized labor, and that he has proved his hostility by his official acts while acting as Governor of the State.

We favor the repeal of all laws abridging the right of juries to fix the amount of damages in cases where the death of a person is caused by wrongful act, and condemn the brutal opinions filed by Republican judges in construing such laws.

We favor an amendment to the laws of the State providing severe penalties for discrimination in the fixing of rates for the transportation of freight in anywise injurious to the farmers or other people of this State.

We charge that the Republican party is under the domination and control of the corporations and trusts of this State, and refer the voters to the numerous acts passed by recent Republican Legislatures for the benefit of corporations, foreign and domestic, at the expense of the people ; and to the railroad acts, passed ostensibly in the interests of the boroughs and villages, but really in the interests of the corporations ; and also call attention to the silence of the platform adopted by the recent Republican convention upon all questions in anywise affecting the interests of trusts and corporations.

We declare that the State of New Jersey owes every child within its borders an education unsurpassed by any other State. We demand for our school children ample and suitable accommodation in every city, town and village, so that every child may attend school the whole of every school day ; the establishment of a thorough kindergarten system for the younger children, and a compulsory education law which will require attendance by every healthy child of school age.

We advocate the passage of a State law which will require the State Treasurer to become the custodian of the Teachers' Retirement Fund, without expense to that fund. We congratulate the teachers upon their successful effort to care for the members of their profession in old age or sickness out of their own fund.

We favor the construction of good roads and of proper State aid therefor.

We declare that the thanks of the people of the State and nation are due to the soldiers and sailors of the army and navy of the United States, who have imperiled their lives in defense of their country and in vindication of the honor of its flag in the recent Spanish war ; that the nation owes to them permanent recognition of their patriotism and their valor, and ample and permanent provision for those of their survivors who have received disabling and honorable wounds in the service of the country, and that the memories of those who have fallen in its defense shall be held in grateful and everlasting remembrance ; that the State should make suitable provision for additional pay to our New Jersey Volunteers. While we rejoice and feel thankful to them for their great victories on land and sea, we denounce the gross, open, criminal incompetency of those placed and defiantly kept in charge of the affairs of the War Department of the present administration of the government of the United States, resulting in the needless loss of thousands of American soldiers' lives, and the infliction of horrible suffering and tortures upon thousands of the brave defenders of the country's honor; and we charge the present administration of the government of the United States with being solely responsible for the horrible results of this incompetency of government officials, continued even after the appalling results were repeatedly brought to the attention of the President of the United States and his official advisers; and we call the attention of the people of the State to the fact that up to this time not a single example has been made of a government official responsible for these monstrous wrongs.

We deplore the spectacle of an ex-Governor of this State, now a member of that Cabinet, appearing at a public convention of his party as the apologist and defender of Algerism and its results.

We invite and cordially welcome the co-operation and support of the honest and patriotic citizens of all parties, and the independent press of the State, however differing from us in other respects, in support of the principles herein declared, and pledge our hearty support to the candidate nominated by this convention, and affirm that he will not resign if elected until the pledges herein made are fulfilled.

BIOGRAPHIES.

GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY.

FOSTER M. VOORHEES.

Governor Voorhees was born at Clinton, Hunterdon county, New Jersey, November 5th, 1856, his father being the cashier of the bank there established, and who comes of Dutch-English ancestors. The Governor was graduated from Rutgers College in 1876, and studied law at Elizabeth with the Honorable William J. Magie, now Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. He was licensed as an attorney-at-law in 1880, and as a counselor in 1884. His success in his profession was instantaneous, and his high standing at the bar is evidenced by the fact that although of different political faith from the appointing power, he was nominated by Governor Werts in 1894 to the office of Circuit Court Judge. He declined the honor on the ground that he owed his first allegiance to his constituents who had elected him to the office of Senator. This was during the exciting and memorable session of 1894, and the sacrifice he made in this instance saved the State Senate to the Republican party and made possible the enactment of reform measures, of which the Governor himself was the foremost champion.

Governor Voorhees has always been an ardent, sincere and conscientious Republican. At the same time, his fairness and conservatism have won for him the admiration of the Independents and Democrats, as well as the members of his own party. He has never been an offensive partisan, and his whole career has been an exemplification of the truth of President Hayes' famous declaration, "He serves his party best who serves his country best."

Mr. Voorhees was a School Commissioner of Elizabeth for four years, from 1884 to 1888, and during that time was instrumental in inaugurating a number of educational reforms. He was a member of the House of Assembly during the years '88, '89 and '90, and was the leader of the Republican minority in the two latter years, receiving the Republican vote for Speaker in both of these sessions. His ability as a parliamentarian and a debater won for him a State reputation. The year 1889 was one of partisan legislation on the part of the Democratic majority, and notwithstanding the tactics it employed to carry through its measures, Mr. Voorhees so skillfully led the minority that the opposition were even in danger of defeat, and on one occasion the Democrats were compelled to leave their seats in the Assembly and break a quorum in order to save themselves from parliamentary rout. In these trying emergencies he achieved a reputation for wisdom, courage and readiness in action which commanded the respect of his friends and foes alike, and which at once ranked him among the Republican leaders of the State. Indeed, in the year following, the Republican State Convention commended by resolution the course of the Republican minority under his leadership.

In 1890 Governor Voorhees served as a member of the special committee of the House and Senate to prepare a ballot reform law. This law to-day bears evidence of his judgment and wisdom. His popularity with the voters was evinced in 1890, when he ran in a district which had given Governor Abbott a plurality of 613, but which he carried by 163; and again in 1893, when he was elected to the Senate from Union county by a plurality of 1144. In 1894 the Senate was Republican by a majority of one, and the Democrats attempted to control the organization of that body and to prevent a number of the Republican Senators from taking their seats. The forcible seizure of the Senate Chamber and the barring of its doors on that occasion are matters of recent history. In this crisis Senator Voorhees, by his counsel and action, averted what might have been a scene of conflict and riot and placed his party in such a position that the Supreme Court eventually decided the controversy in favor of the Republicans. In the work of reform, which was a conspicuous feature of that session of the Legislature, Senator Voorhees was always courageous, always progressive and always statesmanlike. Notwithstanding the fact that the partisan feeling had been stimulated by the unlawful tactics of the minority, no extreme or retaliatory measures were enacted by the Republican Legislature. This was in marked contrast to the partisan legislation of the previous years under Democratic control, and was due largely to the influence of Senator Voorhees. The year 1895, however, was destined to bring him more conspicuously into the public favor. Prior to the organization of the Legislature in 1895 rumors of official corruption and malfeasance were current throughout the State. When the Legislature met a select committee was appointed from the Senate, consisting of Senators Voorhees, Ketcham, Skirm Herbert and Daly, of which Senator Voorhees was chairman, to investigate the charges of extravagance on the part of certain public officials. This committee disclosed a degree of official extravagance and corruption which startled the citizens of the State, and which was perhaps the most instrumental factor in determining the gubernatorial contest in the fall of that year. The work of this committee was so skillfully done, so free from prejudice and partisan bias and so convincing in its disclosures, that its verdict was accepted without question by the members of both political parties. In the special session of 1895 Senator Voorhees followed up the work of the investigating committee by introducing a large number of reform measures calculated to remedy the then existing ills and to prevent the recurrence of such evils in the future. Conspicuous among these was the preparation of an annual appropriation bill. Heretofore appropriations had been made by separate bills and the total appropriation was known only to a few. Senator Voorhees provided for an annual budget, itemizing the several appropriations and yet collecting them in one act, so that the aggregate could be comprehended at a glance, not only by the legislators but by the public at large. In the fall of the same year his friends urged his name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. A gallant fight was made for the young leader from Union but was unsuccessful, Hon. John W. Griggs receiving the nomination. Senator Voorhees loyally supported his successful competitor during the campaign, and he was then proclaimed by the prophets as the successor of Governor Griggs. In 1896 Governor Griggs offered him the position of Clerk in Chancery, which he generously declined in order that some of his friends might receive appointments rather than himself. In 1898 he was elected President of the Senate without opposition, and upon the appointment of Governor Griggs as Attorney-General of the United States he became Acting Governor of the State. In that capacity he fulfilled the expectations of his friends. He displayed a courage of conviction and an executive capacity and a devotion to duty that added to his already brilliant reputation as a public man. His administration fell upon troublous times. War was declared with Spain and he became the War Governor of New Jersey. In this capacity he won new laurels.

Following the precedent established by those noble war Governors, Olden and Parker, Governor Voorhees entered enthusiastically into the active work of preparing New Jersey's quota for the war with Spain. Realizing the difficulties that arise in an emergency of this nature, he sought to restrain, by wise and prudent counsel, all whose absence would entail privation and suffering upon those depending upon them for support, and urged others, whose interests were not likely to suffer, to offer their services. He watched with careful scrutiny each detail of the equipment of the force and endeavored to make efficient organizations of New Jersey's contingent in the service of the United States. His success in this mobilization was quick and pronounced.

His care for and interest in the soldiers, however, continued even after they were mustered into service, and he gave his time and influence to the promotion of their welfare and comfort, even after they had left the borders of the State.

His long public service and his record as Acting Governor of the State, at once brought him to the front as a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, and when the Republican State Convention assembled in September, at Trenton, he was selected as the standard-bearer by acclamation, an honor that has fallen on no other man, in recent years, in the State of New Jersey. He was elected by a plurality of 5,499 over Elvin W. Crane, the Democratic candidate, after an exciting campaign.

Voorhees, Rep., 164,051 ; Crane, Dem., 158,552 ; Landon, Pro., 6,493 ; Maguire, Soc.-Lab., 5,458 ; Schrayshuen, Peop., 491.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

JAMES SMITH, JR., Newark.

Senator Smith was born in 1851, at Newark, N. J., and was educated at private schools in his native city up to the time he went to college at Wilmington, Del. After graduating he located in New York in the drygoods business, his father having been in this line for many years in the same city. He did not like the business, however, and soon returned to Newark, where he engaged in the manufacturing of patent and enameled leather. He is now the sole owner of one of the largest concerns in that line of business in the country and the product of his factories is shipped to all parts of this country and Europe. The business is conducted under the firm name of J. H. Halsey & Smith. It has earned the reputation of manufacturing the finest carriage leathers in the world. Mr. Smith's first political office was that of Councilman of the city of Newark, having been elected in 1883, when the Council was a tie. While the ward he ran in was Republican, he was elected by more majority than the Republican candidate received votes. He at once became a leader, and in the following fall he was unanimously nominated for Mayor, notwithstanding that he wrote a letter to the convention that he would not accept. He stood by that letter, and declined the nomination, whereupon the convention was reconvened and Mayor Haynes was named.

Mr. Smith was President of the Board of Public Works of the city of Newark from the time of its creation and until a short period after he was elected United States Senator, when he resigned. Previous to his connection with that Board he had declined several offices which had been tendered him by his party. He was nominated for United States Senator to succeed Mr. Blodgett, in 1893, by a unanimous vote of the caucus, and he received every Democratic vote in each house on Tuesday, January 24th, when the election was held, the Republicans voting for General William J. Sewell. The vote stood -- Senate: Smith, 16; Sewell, 5; House: Smith, 39; Sewell, 21. In 1892 Mr. Smith was a delegate-at-large to the National Democratic Convention at Chicago and urged the renomination of President Cleveland. He served as chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the National Democratic Convention at Chicago in 1896.

Senator Smith's rise in politics has been rapid and remarkable. In a period of ten years he was advanced from the office of Alderman to that of United States Senator. He has always been a zealous and an active Democrat, and during recent years he has been recognized as a prominent leader of his party. His term as United States Senator will expire on March 3d, 1899.

WILLIAM J. SEWELL, Camden.

Senator Sewell was born in Ireland in 1835. He came to this country at an early age. At the outbreak of the late war he was mustered into the United States service as Captain in the Fifth New Jersey Regiment, August 28th, 1861, and participated in all the engagements in which his regiment took part, down to the battle of Spottsylvania, in May, 1864. In the battle of Chancellorsville, General Mott was disabled by a severe wound, and Sewell assumed charge of the brigade. At a critical point in the engagement he led it forward in a resistless charge and achieved one of the most brilliant successes of the war. He captured eight colors from the Confederates, and retook the regimental standard of a New York regiment. His services were scarcely less brilliant at Gettysburg and other important points. He was wounded twice, at Gettysburg and Chancellorsville. He was made Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fifth Regiment, July, 1862, and Colonel three months later. In September, 1864, after recovering from illness, he became Colonel of the Thirty-eighth Regiment, and remained with it in the field until the close of the war.

He was made Brevet Brigadier-General of Volunteers, April 9th, 1866, for "gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Chancellorsville," and Major-General at the close of the war, for meritorious services. When Joel Parker became Governor, General Sewell was appointed a member of his personal staff. During the railroad strikes of 1877, he was sent by Governor Bedle to the most critical point in New Jersey (Phillipsburg), with the Sixth and Seventh Regiments, and was appointed Provisional Commander of the forces at that point. He guarded his post so well that not a ripple of trouble occurred. He is now, and has been for several years, Commander of the Second Brigade, National Guard of New Jersey.

He was elected to the State Senate from Camden county for three successive terms of three years each, and in the years 1876, '79 and '80 he was President of that body. His career as a legislator was one of brilliant usefulness, and his record is remarkable for strict integrity, honorable bearing and dignified deportment. When he was elected to the United States Senate by the Legislature of 1881, and on severing the ties of friendship which bound him to those on both sides of the Chamber, an impressive scene occurred, when Democrats as well as Republicans vied with each other in complimenting him on the high honor which had been conferred on him, and expressing regret that the State was about to lose so valuable a member of its law-making body. Appropriate resolutions were unanimously passed, and Senator Sewell took his leave a few days before the meeting of the United States Senate, on the 4th of March, 1881. He was elected in joint meeting over his predecessor, Hon. Theodore F.

Randolph, by a strict party vote. He was a delegate to the Republican National Conventions of 1876 and 1880. He was chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, in 1884, and was a staunch supporter of Blaine for the Presidency. In 1888 he was also chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the Republican National Convention, when he supported General Harrison for the Presidency; and again in 1892, when he took a similar position. In 1896 he also served as chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the National Republican Convention held at St. Louis. He was succeeded by Rufus Blodgett as United States Senator in 1887. In 1895, being the choice of the Republican caucus, he was elected to succeed John R. McPherson in the United States Senate. His term will expire on March 3d, 1901.

NEW JERSEY CONGRESSMEN.

First District.

Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester and Salem Counties.

(Population, Census of 1890, 193,193; Census of 1895, 220,049.)

HENRY C LOUDENSLAGER.

(Rep., Woodbury.)

Mr. Loudenslager was born in Mauricetown, Cumberland county, N. J., May 22d, 1852. His parents moved to Paulsboro, Gloucester county, in March, 1856, where he has continuously resided ever since. His education was obtained in the common schools. After leaving the farm of his father, he entered the produce commission business in Philadelphia, and continued in it for ten years, from 1872 to 1882. During this time his father was the County Clerk of Gloucester, and except when engaged in the market during the produce season, the son was employed in the office. He was educated in the seminaries of Charlotteville, N. Y., and Schooley's Mountain, N. J., and studied law with the late Charles E. Schofield of Jersey City. Later he matriculated in the Albany Law School, where he was graduated in 1873 with the degree of LL. B. In March of that year he was admitted as an attorney and counselor to the bar of New York, and in November, 1875, he was admitted as an attorney in New Jersey. He afterward became a counselor, and on December 21, 1894, he was admitted as an attorney and counselor of the Supreme Court of the United States. Since his admission to the bar he has practiced his profession at Boonton. He takes high rank both as a civil and criminal lawyer. He has been counsel in many notable cases and enjoys an extensive and lucrative practice.

In March, 1893, he was appointed by Governor Werts as Prosecutor of the Pleas for Morris county, and served a full term of five years. On April 1st, 1897, he opened an office in Morristown, and he now divides his time between that and the Boonton office, having a son in each office reading law and assisting in legal work. As a citizen Mr. Salmon has always been active and influential in the welfare and advancement of the place of his residence, substantially supporting its leading institutions and liberally encouraging its worthy enterprises. He has been one of the directors of the Boonton National Bank since its organization in 1890. His activity in political affairs has continued since his admission to the bar, and he is a recognized leader in the Democratic party in Morris county. In 1876 he was elected a member of the City Council of Boonton and held that office for six years. In 1877 he was elected a member of the House of Assembly and served on important committees, and was also a recognized leader on the floor of the House. He was counsel for the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Morris county from 1880 until 1893, has been counsel for the Town of Boonton and for various townships in Morris county, holding such an incumbency during the greater part of the time since his admission to the bar. He has been three times appointed Recorder of the city of Paterson, a position which he held when he was elected to Congress, but he was legislated out of office in 1892 by the Democratic Legislature, and was restored in the spring of 1894, owing to Republican ascendancy in the Legislature. WILLIAM D. DALY.

(Dem., Hoboken)

Mr. Daly was born in 1851, in Jersey City, and he has always resided within the limits of Hudson county. His early education was acquired in Public School No. 1, in Jersey City, and among his schoolmates were some who have since become prominent, as, for instance, ex-Mayor Wanser, Samuel D. Dickinson, City Treasurer of Jersey City, and the late City Clerk John E. Scott. At the age of fourteen he went to work in Cory's iron foundry as an apprentice, and later he was employed in the foundry of the Erie Railroad Company and at Blackmore's. Among his shopmates in Blackmore's was Mayor Fagan, of Hoboken. But the legal profession had always offered an attractive field to Mr. Daly, and in 1870 he entered the office of Blair & Ransom, in Jersey City. Four years later he was admitted to the bar as an attorney, and later he was made counselor.

Mr. Daly entered upon the practice of law with the tact and energy peculiar to self-made men. He has practiced law in all the courts of the State and has represented the defense in more capital cases than any lawyer in the State, and now stands in the front rank of criminal lawyers in the State of New Jersey.

In the great Erie Railroad strike of 1878 Mr. Daly appeared as counsel for the arrested freight-handlers and secured their acquittal. In 1887 he conducted the defense of the Cigarmakers' Union in Jersey City, whose leaders were charged with conspiracy. In this case also he succeeded in obtaining a verdict of acquittal. His early associations have made Mr. Daly entertain a very kindly feeling toward laboring men and labor organizations.

In appreciation of his legal ability, President Cleveland, during his first term, appointed Mr. Daly Assistant United States District Attorney, and this office he held for three years, handing in his resignation to an incoming administration. In 1888 he was made alternate delegate to the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis, and again, in 1892, to the Chicago Convention. In 1896 he was a district delegate to the National Democratic Convention at Chicago. In 1891 he was urged to accept the nomination for member of the House of Assembly from the Eighth District of Hudson county. Elected by a rousing majority, he took his place on the floor of the House as the practical leader of his party. The same courtesy which had characterized his work as a practitioner won for him hosts of friends as a legislator, even from the opposition, and at the close of the session he was appointed Judge of the Hoboken District Court. This office he resigned upon his election to the Senate in 1892.

The election which resulted in the choice of Judge Daly to the Senate was won after a most exciting campaign. J Herbert Potts, a man of great strength and popularity, was nominated on the Republican ticket, but Mr. Daly had such a hold on the popular heart that he was triumphantly elected by 5,645 plurality, the largest vote ever given a Senatorial candidate in Hudson county. He was re-elected in 1895 by a plurality of 4,559 over ex-Assemblyman Max Salinger, the Republican nominee.

During his six years' service in the Senate he gained a high reputation as a legislator, and for more than half that period he was the leader of his party on the floor. He made a brilliant record in 1895, when the riparian rights question was before the Senate, during his opposition to the Creamery Trust, and while serving as a member of the Special Investigating Committee of the Senate. During the Presidential campaign of 1896 he rendered his party valuable service on the stump and also as a member of its State Committee. He was a prominent candidate for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination in 1898, and would have received a majority of the votes of the convention had not a stampede been engineered just in the nick of time in favor of the opposing candidate. Still, despite his disappointment, Mr. Daly worked hard for the election of Mr. Elvin W. Crane, the nominee. Mr. Daly was elected to Congress by a plurality of 10,108, the largest ever given to a candidate for Congress in the district.

1896—McEwan, Rep., 30,557; Young, Dem., 26,080; McCracken, Pro., 175; Wortendyke, Nat. Dem., 875; Campbell, Soc.-Lab., 1,073; Ginner, Silver, 235. McEwan's plurality, 4,477.

1898—Daly, Dem., 30,270; Pangborn, Rep., 20,162; Brown, Pro., 258; Herrschaft, Soc.-Lab., 1,723. Daly's plurality, 10,108.

Two years later he entered Yale College, from which he was graduated in 1876. He read law in the office of Williams & Thompson, in Chicago, and attended the Chicago Law School, and was graduated in 1878. He has been more or less engaged in active politics since he came to Elizabeth, fourteen years ago, and for some time he has been Chairman of the City Republican Central Committee. He is a graduate of Princeton College, United States Senator George Gray being one of his classmates.

Since leaving Princeton the Senator has been engaged in the manufacture of tinware and sheet-metal goods, employing many hundreds of persons. The firm of E. Ketcham & Co., with which he was connected from 1859 to 1885, was merged into a new corporation, one of whose factories is in Newark. The Senator is a Director as well as Secretary and Treasurer of the Central Stamping Company. During the years 1884-5 he represented the Eleventh ward in the Newark Board of Education. In 1886 he was elected to the Common Council, and for four years he was an active member of that body. Besides being chairman of important committees and a member of the Committee on Finance, he took a leading interest in municipal questions, notably those of a new water-supply and rapid transit. He is also a Director of the American Insurance Company of Newark, the largest company of its kind in the State of New Jersey. He was a member of the House of Assembly from Essex county in 1891-2. The Senator was the author of the Saturday half-holiday law which was passed in 1892. In 1895 he served on the Special Investigating Committee of the Senate. He was re-elected to the Senate in 1896, by the increased plurality of 20,923. Last year he served as Chairman of the Committees on Banks and Insurance, Municipal Corporations, Militia and State Prison, and as a member of the Committees on Treasurer's Accounts, Soldiers' Home, and Clergy.

SOLOMON H. STANGER.

(Rep., Glassboro)

Senator Stanger was born at Glassboro, N. J., March 27th, 1836, on a farm. His boyhood days were spent with these surroundings. His education was attained in the old school-house at Glassboro, after which he entered into the industry of tilling the soil, which he pursued faithfully and successfully until the year 1881, when he moved from the farm into the famous "Temperance House" opposite the M. E. Church, Glassboro, and opened a general store, which has grown to be the largest and most successful of its kind in the county.

In 1835 he was elected to the Board of Freeholders, serving in that capacity for ten successive years, holding the most important positions the Board could place upon him.

In 1892 he was elected to the Assembly, and has been re-elected three times since, serving four years altogether, and being the only person from Gloucester county ever returned for so many successive terms. He served on some of the most important committees. In 1896 he was Chairman of the House Committee on Education, also a member of the Committees on Labor and Industry, Ri-parian Rights and School for Deaf-Mutes.

Senator Stanger has always been closely identified with, and is a leader of, the Republican party, having at heart its principles, and doing all in his power to promote the same. His many friends, recognizing his sterling qualities and faithful service, have shown their appreciation by electing him to the high and honorable position as their representative in the Senate. Last year he served as Chairman of the Committees on Engrossed Bills and Public Health, and as a member of the Committees on Agriculture, Public Grounds and Buildings, Reform School for Boys and Passed Bills.

ALLAN LANGDON McDERMOTT.

(Dem., Jersey City.)

Senator McDermott was born in South Boston, Mass., on the 30th of March, 1854. His father was Hugh Farrer McDermott, who, to use the language of the memorial resolutions adopted by the New York Press Club, on his decease, in 1890, "in the wide scope of his literary labors, as journalist, dramatist, author and poet, made a conspicuous place and earned enduring fame for himself." His mother's maiden name was Annie J. Langdon, and she was of one of the oldest families in New England. In 1870 the subject of this sketch determined to follow journalism, and, as a preliminary step, learned to set type and run a press. A few verses published in a Boston paper, and reprinted in the New York Telegram, in 1870, show that Mr. McDermott had a very narrow escape from a literary tomb. In 1876 he entered the law school of the University of the City of New York, and was graduated the following year, delivering an essay on "The Sanction of the Law," at the commencement exercises, held at the Academy of Music, in June, 1877. The same year he was admitted to the bar of New Jersey, becoming a counselor in 1880. While he was a student in the office of the late Leon Abbett, there was formed a friendship between preceptor and pupil which had grown with the years, and had on more than one occasion evidenced a steadfastness which is rarely found in the harsh lines of political association. In 1878 Mr. McDermott was defeated as a candidate for Assembly from the Fourth District of Hudson county, but was elected in 1879 and 1880, and in 1881 was the Democratic candidate for Speaker of that body. From 1878 to 1883 he was Corporation Attorney of Jersey City, resigning that position when appointed Judge of the Second District Court, by Governor Ludlow. In 1884 Governor Abbett appointed Mr. McDermott a member of the State Board of Assessors. In that position he formulated the rules which have ever since been followed in the taxation of railroad property and corporate franchises in New Jersey. In 1886 Governor Abbett nominated him as Clerk in Chancery, and he was confirmed by the Senate. In communicating the fact to the Legislature, the late ex-United States Senator Cattell, also a member of the State Board, wrote: "The Hon. Allan L. McDermott, one of the original members of the Board, was, during the last session of the Legislature, appointed and confirmed as Clerk in the Court of Chancery, and on the 1st of April resigned as a member of this Board to enter upon his new position. Much of the success of the early work of this Board is due to the intelligent and faithful service of Mr. McDermott, largely supplemented by his legal knowledge, which was invaluable. The Board parted with him most regretfully, and we are free to say that in our judgment it will be difficult to find one who will in all respects fill his place." In 1884, '85 and '86 Mr. McDermott was President of the Board of Finance and Taxation of Jersey City. Upon his retirement from that position the Argus said: "The withdrawal of Allan L. McDermott from the management of our municipal finances is a public calamity. His clear head, his honesty of purpose and untiring energy have rendered him of inestimable value to our city. He has introduced and enforced rigid principles of economy in our local expenditures, and has, with the aid of his colleagues, established an admirable financial system, which has placed our credit above cavil or suspicion." He was renominated for Clerk in Chancery, in 1891, by Governor Abbett, and he was again confirmed by the Senate. In 1892 Mr. McDermott was, because of dissatisfaction with the existing local government, defeated in a canvass for the Mayoralty of Jersey City. In 1894 he was nominated by Governor Werts as a member of the Commission appointed to revise the State Constitution. He was Chairman of the State Democratic Committee from 1886 until 1896, and drafted every platform, with one exception, adopted by a State Democratic Convention during that time.

Mr. McDermott was Chairman of the New Jersey delegation at the National Convention held in Chicago in 1896.

He refused to accept the platform adopted by that convention, and being nominated for Congress, declined to run. In 1898 he was appointed by Mayor Hoos Corporation Counsel of Jersey City. In that year he was elected to the Senate by a plurality of 9,528.

1895—Daly, Dem., 26,033; Salinger, Rep., 21,474; Campbell, Soc.-Lab., 1,120; McCracken, Pro., 350. Daly's plurality, 4,559.

JAMES H. VAN CLEEF.

(Dem., New Brunswick.)

Senator Van Cleef was born at Branchville, Somerset county, N. J., July 12th, 1841, and is an attorney and counselor-at-law. He was educated at Rutgers College grammar school at New Brunswick, N. J., and Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. Upon leaving college he entered the law office of Hon Mercer Beasley, and when Mr. Beasley was elevated to the Supreme Court bench Mr. Van Cleef continued his studies under Edward T. Green, late Judge of the United States District Court at Trenton.

Mr. Van Cleef completed his preparatory studies in 1867, in June of which year he was admitted to the bar. Immediately on the expiration of the term fixed by law he took his second examinations and was licensed as a counselor. He began the practice of his profession in New Brunswick, where he has continued it to the present time, having built up a large and lucrative business.

He was counsel for the Middlesex county Board of Chosen Freeholders in 1873 and 1874. In 1875 he was made Assemblyman by over 400 majority, although his opponent received the year before 700 majority. The Board of Aldermen elected him City Attorney in 1877. The board was then a political tie. Although a Democrat and a fervent partisan, so satisfactorily did Mr. Van Cleef fulfill the duties of his office that he was continued in office in 1878 by a Board of Aldermen that was then largely Republican.

In 1880 he was again elected to the Legislature by 655 majority. The year previous the Republican candidate had 959 majority. Mr. Van Cleef was elected to the Assembly in 1881 for the third time and without any opposition. While a member of the Legislature Mr. Van Cleef drafted and had passed some of the most important laws of that period. In 1889 he was elected Mayor of the city of New Brunswick, and so honestly and efficiently did he conduct the duties of Executive that in 1891 he was unanimously re-elected to that office—the Democrats having renominated him and the Republicans having placed his name on their ticket. He was again renominated by the Democrats and indorsed by the Republicans, and served a third term. The Senator holds the degree of A. M., which was conferred upon him by his Alma Mater in 1872. He comes of good, sturdy, Dutch stock on his father's side, and when recently made a member of the Holland Society, traced his ancestry back to 1641. He is a member of the Odd Fellows, Masons, New Jersey Historical Society, Knights of Pythias, Zeta Psi (college society), and several other organizations, and is President of the New Brunswick Fire Insurance Company.

Last year he served on the Committees on Revision of Laws, Corporations, Banks and Insurance State Hospitals, and Reform School for Boys.

He opened an office in Dover, Morris county, in 1887, and remained there until 1889, when he returned to Morristown, and has since resided and practiced law in that place. His law practice is quite general in its character. He acted as Temporary Chairman of the Republican State Convention in 1895, which nominated John W. Griggs for Governor. In 1896 he made a most brilliant campaign and was re-elected by the increased plurality of 2,977. He had the indorsement of the Gold Democrats. His own county of Morris gave him a plurality of 3,627, despite the fact that his opponent, Augustus W. Cutler, was also a resident of that county. His enterprise and business tact made him successful from the first, and he is now at the head of the largest dry goods establishment in Ocean county, and one of the largest in that section of the State. Again he was re-elected in 1898 by a plurality of 1,184.

In behalf of the members of the House at the close of the session he was presented with a suitable testimonial in recognition of his worth and the phrase "as fair as Watkins" there and then originated to be handed down as an example for future occupants of the chair.

On returning to the United States, in 1888, he was admitted as attorney and counselor-at-law in New York, being then twenty-one years old. A few months later he was admitted to practice as attorney at the New Jersey bar, and three years subsequently he became a counselor. The election returns gave Mr. Haver 114 votes, Mr. O'Brien 260 votes and Allan Benny 259 votes, and "Benny" 1 vote. Mr. Benny claimed the vote cast for "Benny" should be counted for him, and contested the election before Judge Lippincott, in the Hudson County Circuit Court, who decided that he should have the "Benny" vote, but it appearing in the case that his father was a Scotchman, and not naturalized here at the time of his son's birth, Judge Lippincott decided that therefore he was not a citizen of the United States, and declared O'Brien elected. Upon an appeal to the Supreme Court, Judge Lippincott's decision was reversed. Mr. Benny was declared to be a citizen by virtue of his birth in this country, and the election was declared a tie. (See case reported in 29th Vroom, page 36.) Mr. O'Brien, who had taken the seat because of Judge Lippincott's decision, was forced to vacate, and it remained vacant the remainder of the term. Mr. Benny was elected to the Assembly in 1897 by a plurality of 8,623 over Lees, the highest candidate on the Republican ticket, and he was re-elected last November by a plurality of 8,345 over Basse, the highest candidate on the Republican ticket. Judge Vredenburg comes from a very old New Jersey family, being the second son of the late Judge Peter Vredenburg. Vredenburg, who came to New Netherlands from The Hague in May, 1658, in the ship Gilded Beaver.

Peter Vredenburg, father of the present Judge, was a prominent jurist in both State and nation. He served two terms as an Associate Justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, being first appointed by Governor Price, in 1855, and again by Governor Olden, in 1862. Many of his decisions are regarded as being among the ablest reported.

After his admission, young Vredenburg began the practice of his profession at Freehold his native town, and has continued to carry on the law business there ever since, with the exception of about a year, 1864, when he was located at Eatontown, to continue the business of his brother, Major Peter Vredenburg, Jr., who was absent in the military service and who was killed September 19th, 1864, at the battle of Winchester, Va., at the head of his regiment.

In 1865 Mr. Vredenburg formed a law partnership with Philip J. Ryall, which continued for about five years, until Mr. Ryall's failing health compelled his retirement from practice. In the exciting general election of 1884. Mr. Vredenburg was nominated by the Republicans of Monmouth county for State Senator, and was only defeated by the retirement of the regular Democratic candidate a few days before the election and the fusion of the Democrats and Prohibitionists, and by a very narrow majority.

In 1897 he was one of the special Commissioners to consider the question of railroad taxation, whose report became enacted into the body of the tax laws.

He was elected a member of the Trenton Common Council from the Second ward in 1888, and served his entire term of three years as Chairman of the Finance Committee. It was during this period that Chambersburg and Millham were consolidated with Trenton, when a re-appraisement of all the city property was necessitated, and also a sewer system was established, a public park purchased and a paid fire department created. He was elected State Comptroller by a joint meeting of the Legislature in 1894, and re-elected in 1897 for a term of three years. Attorney-General.

SAMUEL H. GREY, Camden.

Mr. Grey was born in Camden, N. J., April 6th, 1836, and is a son of Philip James Grey, for many years a lead-

He spent his entire life in Camden, where he was educated at private schools kept by Hon. La Fayette Grover, afterwards Governor of Oregon and Senator from that State, and his brother Talleyrand. He studied law with Hon. Abraham Browning, the first Attorney-General appointed under the new Constitution, and was admitted as an attorney at the November term, 1857, and as a counselor at the February term, 1861.

The Attorney-General long since achieved for himself a high reputation as a lawyer, a pleader and an orator. He has figured in many prominent legal battles, in nearly all of which he has come out crowned with victory. His masterly conduct of the impeachment proceedings in the case of Prison Keeper Patrick H. Lavery, in 1886, when he acted as counsel for the House of Assembly, brought about conviction by the State Senate sitting as a High Court of Impeachment, and which was presided over by John W. Griggs, since Governor of New Jersey. His argument before the Supreme Court in 1888, in support of the constitutionality of the Local Option law, won for him a favorable decision, and the statute was not disturbed. With other eminent lawyers as his associates, he distinguished himself in the famous controversy over the organization of the State Senate in 1894, when a full bench of the Supreme Court sustained his interpretation of the constitutional law bearing on the case. Chief Justice Beasley delivered the opinion of the Court, which declared that Maurice A. Rogers, Republican, was the duly elected President of the Senate.

Twice has the Attorney-General been a Presidential Elector for New Jersey—in 1872, when the vote of the State was cast for Grant and Wilson, and in 1896, when it was recorded for McKinley and Hobart. He served as a member of the Constitutional Commission of 1873, and was President of the Constitutional Commission of 1894.

In 1866 Mr. Grey was appointed Prosecutor of the Pleas for the county of Cape May, and served seven years. He served as a member of the Republican State Executive Committee from 1868 to 1871. Several times he has refused judicial and political honors. He could have gone to Congress in 1874, when he declined a nomination in the First Congressional District. Governor Griggs offered him the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in 1897, which he declined. On March 1st of the same year he was nominated for Attorney-General, to succeed John P. Stockton, and he was unanimously confirmed by the Senate on the 8th of that month. The Attorney-General has been a Director of the Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company since its organization, in 1873, and he is President of the West Jersey Title and Guaranty Company, a position he has occupied since its formation.

STATE BOARD OF ASSESSORS.

FOR THE ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION OF RAILROAD AND OTHER CORPORATE PROPERTY.

Bird W. Spencer, President ; Robert S. Green, Stephen J. Meeker, Amos Gibbs. Irvine E. Maguire, Secretary ; George William Earnard, Assistant Secretary.

This department of the State Government was created under an act of the Legislature entitled "An act for the taxation of railroad and canal property," approved April 10th, 1884

The work of the Board was increased during the same year by the passage of another act, entitled "An act to provide for the imposition of State taxes upon certain corporations, and for the collection thereof," approved April 18th, 1884.

The report of the Board for the year 1898 shows that 115 railroad and canal companies within the State are subject to taxation. These companies represent about 2,300 miles of railroads and 173 miles of canals.

The following table is a summary of the valuation and assessment of railroad and canal property for the year 1898, subject to review by the Board, which review is now in progress.

Under the provisions of the act of April 18th, 1884, and its supplements, the Board has assessed, for the year 1898, a State franchise tax against 5,190 corporations, amounting to $1,201,469.14 tax.

The following table shows the comparison with previous years of the number of corporations assessed under this act, and the amount of tax levied:

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The State Board of Health was created by the Legislature in 1877, and the annual reports show the work which has been accomplished during the past twenty years. Professor C. F. Brackett, M.D., LL.D., is President of the Board, and Henry Mitchell, M.D., is Secretary. The Secretary of State, the Attorney-General and the State Geologist are members ex officio. The other members are John A. Githens, Esq., Asbury Park; Edward R. O'Reilly, M.D., Elizabeth; Laban Dennis, M.D., Newark; Franklin Gauntt, M.D., Burlington; Henry Mitchell, M.D., Asbury Park; Henry B. Rue, M.D., Hoboken.

In addition to the duties assigned to the Board by the act under which it is constituted, it has charge of the execution of the laws for the prevention of the spread of contagious diseases of animals, for regulating the sale of petroleum, for preventing the sale of contaminated milk, for regulating maritime quarantine, for conducting the State laboratory of hygiene and for preventing the sale of diseased meat and other unwholesome foods.

Besides its special work the Board is constantly consulted by local health authorities concerning methods for restricting the spread of preventable diseases, the abatement of nuisances, the prevention of the pollution of streams and for the improvement of sanitary administration.

As a Bureau of Vital Statistics the Board receives and records all marriages, births and deaths which occur in the State, and tabulates these records for use in proving descent; in the relations of guardians and wards; in the disabilities of minors; in the administration of estates; the settlement of insurance and pensions; the requirements of foreign countries concerning residence, marriages and legacies; for proving marriages in our own country; in voting and in the jury and militia service; in the right to admission and practice in the professions and in public office; in the enforcement of the laws relating to education and to child labor; the determination of the 'age of consent,' &c

The following table shows the number of marriages, births, still-births and deaths registered each year since the establishment of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, with all supplements included, and also the number of recorded marriages which occurred among non-residents:

STATE MUSEUM.

The State Museum was established by act of the Legislature, approved March 20th, 1895. A Commission, consisting of the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly, the State Geologist, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the President of the State Board of Agriculture, was created, the members to serve without compensation. This Commission appointed Professor Silas R. Morse, of Atlantic City, Curator of the Museum.

The Museum had its origin in the collections made by the State for the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, in 1893, and the geological exhibits that were already on exhibition in the State House.

New exhibits are constantly being added, and all the available room on the third floor of the State House has been filled. The exhibits are designed to keep the general public in touch with the State's life, to illustrate its natural resources and capabilities, and constitutes an important part of its educational auxiliaries.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

President, Hon. D. D. Denise, Freehold; Vice-President, Professor E. B. Voorhees, New Brunswick; Treasurer, William R. Lippincott, Fellowship; Secretary, Franklin Dye, Trenton; Executive Committee, H. F. Bodine, Locktown; Dr Joseph B Ward Lyons Farms; Walter Heritage, Mickleton; also the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

There are nineteen County Boards now organized; also a State Horticultural Society and a State Poultry Association. All these societies, except the last named, receive financial aid from the State Board appropriation.

The market value of lands now devoted to farming purposes varies in different parts of the State, running from $30 to $60, $80 and $100 per acre, being cheaper in New Jersey, considering all the advantages, than any other State in the Union. The number of farms in the State is 30,828, having an average size of 86 acres. Total acreage, 2,662,009, of which 75 per cent. is improved. (Census of 1889.)

During the past year farm crops in the State were varied as to yield. The wheat yield per acre, average as made up from county reports, is 17.4 bushels; rye, 16 bushels ; oats, 21 bushels ; buckwheat, 21 bushels ; hay, 1½ tons ; white potatoes, 75 bushels ; sweets, 140 bushels. Apples and peaches were a short crop.

Number and value of farm animals in the State in 1897: Horses, 79,980 ; value, $5,137,961. Mules, 7,342 ; value, $592,786. Milch cows, 208,421 ; value, $7,523,998 (Milch cows are much higher in price than they were last year and the total value would be greatly increased at this time). Other cattle, 42,406 ; value, $1,066,254. Sheep, 41,067 ; value, $155,193. Swine, 150,368 ; value, $1,090,545. Total valuation, $15,566,737. Fruit, market garden and poultry products, if correct returns could be procured, would largely increase this amount. The Annual Report of the Board comprises an edition of 5,000 copies, these are quickly demanded by farmers and others interested in such matters.

The Board holds its annual meeting at the State House, convening the day immediately following the organization of the Legislature. The members of the Legislature are cordially invited to attend its sessions.

PUBLIC ROADS UNDER STATE AID LAW.

There is no subject that is agitating the public mind to a greater extent than the improvement of the wagon ways of the United States. The greatest monuments of the State are the long lines of improved highways it is yearly instrumental in creating. There is no form of public expenditure that the people are so generally well satisfied with as the bounty the State is giving to the different counties to aid them in making hard and permanent highways. The zeal for hard roads is becoming each year more and more intense throughout the State.

During the year of '98 the State Aid has been spread over about eighty-five miles of roads. This is an extension of the bounty over a larger area than any previous year. The construction in '95 was about forty-six miles ; in '96 about fifty miles ; in '97 about seventy miles, and in '98 about eighty-five miles. The ability to construct a greater number of miles each year arises from cheaper stone and a better understanding on the part of the State and counties of the principles of road-building. On account of the greater demand, larger plants for the crushing of stone are being placed on the trap ridges in different parts of the State. These plants are being erected with the most improved devices, with immense crushing capacity and facilities for handling material at the minimum cost ; therefore, the consequent competition for the sale of stone is bringing the price down to a small profit per ton, thus working in harmony with the prevalent commercial idea—immense sales at small profits. These are some of the factors that are lessening the cost of hard roads. Then, too, observation and experience have demonstrated that the earth properly drained is as good a foundation as can be obtained for any road superstructure ; therefore, it is not necessary to deposit any more thickness of metal for a foundation than is required to stand up under the wear until the roads have to be resurfaced ; thus the principal construction of the State has been changed from roads ten, twelve and fourteen inches in thickness into those four, six, and eight inches deep. The result has also been that stone has been substituted on many of the lines where gravel was intended, because it has been found that a sufficient depth of stone can be supplied and placed almost as cheaply as the gravel, and with less cost when the gravel has to be carted long distances. Then, the cost of maintaining is less and the stability of the stone beds greater, they not being weakened by the changes of seasons. Still, many miles of gravel roads are being constructed through thinly-settled counties where there is an abundance of gravel in close proximity to the improvements.

We are also learning to cheaply maintain the surface of stone roads. We have discovered that the application of coarse sand, of gravel or loam, in which there is oxide of iron, will maintain the integrity of the surface by keeping the wear of the wagons and horses' shoes from the stone, and makes a soft cushion for their feet. This coating also prevents the stone dust from blowing away, holding beneath the necessary moisture to maintain its cementation qualities, the dust, when moist, being a most powerful binder for broken stone. Thus, by utilizing the materials that lie along or near the lines of the roadbeds, we are supporting the heavy traffic and preserving the surface from wear at a very small expense.

The desire for improved roads is greatly on the increase. There are now many counties that would immediately cover all their leading lines with stone if they could procure the necessary means. There are now on file applications for 425 miles of roads, and the applications are constantly increasing. Some counties are becoming so impatient they cannot wait for State aid, but are constructing many miles of improved roads without the assistance of the State.

On many of the roads of this State, where the traffic is mostly moving in one direction, a macadamized or gravel width of eight feet would be amply sufficient; on roads more important, where it is necessary to provide for the frequent passing of vehicles, a stone width of sixteen feet is necessary. It is probable, however, that a minimum width of ten or twelve feet would be better than eight feet, as the traffic would not be so closely confined to one track, and the edges of the roadbed would be less likely to be pushed out. Drivers should be instructed to drive over all parts of roads, to prevent the formation of ruts, which are great destroyers of roads. We have settled upon the widths of ten, twelve and fourteen feet as ample for the traffic in the country and sixteen feet in the towns, as the limit for State aid.

The roads are now costing all the way from twenty to seventy cents a square yard; in the lower part of the State the cost ranges from fifty to seventy cents. In Morris and Passaic counties they are building the bed of stone four and six inches deep; consequently the expense, where rock is mined along the road, ranges only from twenty to forty five cents per square yard.

We have adopted a system of continuous avenues, and have now nearly completed a line which runs all the way from Atlantic City in the Southern part of the State, to Jersey City, and from Jersey City to the extreme western boundaries of Morris and Passaic counties. West of these we are building other systems, crossing at Trenton, which are almost parallel with the first, so that in a few years there will be several continuous lines north and south, east and west through the State.

Three continuous lines have been started from the city of Trenton, portions of which are already built. The first one leads from Trenton through Pennington, Hopewell, Blawenburg and Belle Mead to Somerville, where it will connect with the northern system of roads running east to Newark; another line, already built from Trenton through Princeton to Kingston, is projected from there to Belle Mead, thence to Somerville; also from Kingston by the way of Millstone to New Brunswick. The third line, already built to Edinburg, is projected by the way of Cranbury over the Cranbury pike to New Brunswick. These lines, with laterals, will supply a large area with hard roads all leading from Trenton, through good farming districts, to the most important cities in the north central and eastern portions of the State.

From the City of Camden there are seven continuous lines mostly built, leading southwest, south, southeast, east, north and northeast, over highly cultivated farming districts, and through the largest towns in Burlington, Camden and Gloucester counties. Lines are building and projected in Monmouth county which will, in time, connect the cities named with the farming districts of Monmouth, and with the rapidly growing towns of the richly-developed Monmouth county seashore. Several lines are completed from New Brunswick and Metuchen, east to Plainfield; north to Rahway, and west to Perth Amboy.

Many lines are completed, and others nearly so, leading from Paterson and Newark west, through Essex, Passaic, Morris and Somerset counties. In Morris county several lines are being built, and others contemplated, leading from Morristown through all sections of the county, and connecting east and south with the improved roads of the adjacent counties, making fine drives for the wealthy New Yorkers that have settled in great numbers in these picturesque sections, and great market lanes over which the farmers easily transport their produce to the great population residing in Newark and the Oranges.

The wheelmen were the early advocates for stone roads, but now farmers are the pleaders and workers, and they have filed hundreds of petitions and daily filing more. The reason is they are yearly saving, in the use of the hard roads, many thousands of dollars in the wear and tear of the teams, in the cash cost of sending their produce to market, and in the better condition of the products when delivered. These statements are strikingly illustrated in our southern counties, where thousands of immense loads of produce are daily carted to the Philadelphia markets at a saving of from eight to ten dollars a team per day over the old plan of transportation. The result is the farmers are rapidly buying larger, heavier wagons with broad tires. If the present rate of increase continues, the capacity of each wagon will be almost equal to that of the small boat formerly used in this carrying trade. The railroads are rapidly destroying the carrying trade of the canals; so the macadamized roads are rapidly superseding the streams as highways over which the nearby products can be more easily and cheaply transported.

Governing bodies of counties are also learning to cheapen construction by finding they cannot afford to pay by expensive mistakes for the education of engineers, so they are now mainly employing them without regard to their party affiliations, giving them fixed salaries instead of percentages, thus destroying all temptation to increase the cost of the work. The frequent changes of engineers has, in the past, lost the counties thousands of dollars from the ignorance of new incumbents of the first principles of road-building. Eight counties have adopted this principle of continuous service, and are receiving benefits from so doing far beyond the amount of the salary of the engineer.

TROLLEY LINES.

Governing bodies of townships and counties should long hesitate before allowing trolley lines in the center of their macadam roads. They destroy the crowns of these roads, making them doubly expensive and impossible to maintain. They cause rutting and heavy drafting, by forcing the weight of the wagon loads to the lower side of the bed, strain the wheels of wagons and destroy their rims, make driving dangerous, and entirely unsafe for women and children, and cause many runaways from fright, forcing many to desert the highways to avoid the danger of the rapidly passing car.

Trolleys are a necessity, and of great benefit to communities, but they should obtain their lines outside of, and not be permitted to destroy our highways, dedicated to free and unobstructed public use for personal vehicles.

STEEL RAILS.

The Road Department at Washington is making, in several Western States, some very satisfactory experiments with steel rails for wagon roads. The form of the rail is an inverted trough, the surface flat, with a slightly raised bead to guide the wheel. There are no wooden ties; the rails are tied by rods. Every rail-joint is so arranged as to serve as a remount for wheels. There is a fair prospect of their coming into use in sections where stone is scarce or entirely absent.

Through the kindness of the Massachusetts Highway Commission we have been enabled to test some of the different varieties of trap in our State as to their coefficient of wear.

We hope the State will, in the near future, make an appropriation for mechanical and chemical test of its road stone.

Inaugural Address of Hon. Foster M. Voorhees.

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly :

The duties of the office upon which I am about to enter are assumed with a deep sense of all that is implied in the words of the oath just taken I shall strive to observe it both in letter and in spirit.

Although chosen through the favor of my fellow citizens, as representing one of the great political parties of the State, I am not unmindful of the obligation to devote my services to the common good of all. I have no apology to offer for being a partisan. Under a republican form of government parties will of necessity arise. A people, free to learn and free to think for themselves, can only find in organization the instrument to enforce their wishes respecting government. Political parties are not to be considered as unmixed evils. Their existence is an evidence of active interest in public affairs. Their adherents are quick to assert their individual rights and to exact a full and faithful performance of every public duty. Through their agency the ends of government are best to be secured. But governments do not exist merely for the sake of parties. With public power comes the duty to exercise it for the public good. Viewed from a selfish standpoint, I believe that they best serve a party who, in the conduct of their office, pay heed to the interests of the greatest number. This duty is especially imposed upon the Executive by the oath of office which he takes. In his acts he is not to seek partisan advantage only. He is to promote the peace and prosperity of the State and maintain its lawful rights. He is to see that its laws, civil and criminal, are enforced alike for all and against all. He is to secure equal protection to rich and to poor. Violators of the law are to be punished without distinction. He must demand honesty and economy, and oblige public servants to render a faithful and efficient service. Personal prejudice or passionate partisanship have no place in the discharge of his duties. On the contrary, everything which will promote the honor, the happiness and the common welfare of the State are to be the objects of his solicitude and care.

Such, in brief, are the views I entertain of the office which I now assume. At all times and under all circumstances I shall, to the best of my ability, act in accordance with these views, indulging the hope that to the commonwealth which I serve there may come no harm and that its happiness and prosperity may be advanced.

The limitation which custom has put upon an address of this character prevents me from making more than a brief reference to policies or measures which I think should especially engage legislative attention. As occasion may arise, it will be my privilege to communicate to the Legislature special recommendations upon those subjects which I may deem worthy of consideration.

It is fortunate for the interests of the State that there are no subjects of a purely partisan character likely to present themselves. Matters can be considered dispassionately and without party bias, and all can claim an equal share in the credit and responsibility for what may be done.

The reforms inaugurated within recent years have removed many subjects which formerly called for and received legislative action.

The policy, so recently begun, of managing our State institutions upon a non-partisan basis, has, during the short time of trial, demonstrated the wisdom of those who favored it. It has received the emphatic approval of the public and cannot now be abandoned without injury to the public service. Legislative interference with local self-government is contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and the fate of those who have offended in this regard in the past warns us against future violations of our duty. In these days when independence of thought characterizes the average voter, when party allegiance is quickly shifted, when those who prefer good government to success of party can, by their action, affect the results of an election, higher considerations than those purely partisan must influence the law-maker if he would win public confidence and favor for himself and those whom he represents.

Except in a few notable instances, the Legislature will have to deal with matters mainly local in character and without political significance.

The recommendation of the distinguished Governor who immediately preceded me, that legislative action should be restricted, has been wisely followed. It is known and observed by all that the volume of laws has notably decreased without prejudice to the interests of the general public. For the most part such measures only have been enacted as were demanded by some pressing and general necessity. The reform thus auspiciously begun in our own State, and so urgently recommended in others, has the approval of all, irrespective of party. I trust that the same spirit may continue to prevail, and that favorable action will be limited to those measures only which are worthy of assuming the form of positive enactment. Let us abandon the notion that in some form of law it is desirable to find means to remove every fancied evil or temporary inconvenience and to provide for every imaginary method of conduct. It is better that the laws should be fewer in number, and comprehend within their scope objects of moment, than that numerous enactments which are limited in operation and only temporary in importance should find place on the statute-book. The evil effects and inconvenience resulting from legislation of the last-mentioned character has made necessary the appointment of the several commissions to codify the laws relating to various subjects. They have been obliged to harmonize provisions of numerous conflicting statutes, remove redundancies, and correct obscure or careless forms of expression, in order to embody in one clear, concise and explicit act all laws relating to the topic which formed the subject of their labors. It has required the exercise of great skill and care, and especial credit is due to these gentlemen who have gratuitously given their time and services in the prosecution of a work so advantageous to the State. There is need for a similar revision and codification of laws relating to other topics, and it is my intention in due time to appoint commissions for this purpose.

In this connection one subject presents itself, which, by reason of the great interests involved, calls for earnest and immediate attention. I refer to the laws relating to cities and other municipalities. Scattered through many pages of the statute-books, and forming the subject-matter of numerous chapters of laws, are to be found the provisions relating to this form of government. They are conflicting, doubtful and obscure. They have frequently been the subjects of litigation and have received judicial interpretation. At times they have received construction seemingly contradictory. Few dare hazard an opinion as to the constitutionality of a proposed enactment. so great is the uncertainty in which the power of the Legislature relating to this subject is now involved, and so subtle have been the distinctions made as to the required tests of a valid act. I believe radical measures are required to remove the present embarrassing condition. Some general and uniform act for all cities is necessary if the present uncertainty is to be removed. A mere codification of existing laws will not remove the trouble. It may be necessary to modify or repeal the provisions of some special charters if a general form of municipal government be devised, but in doing this the common good of all would be promoted at the possible expense of the few who might be temporarily affected. In such a scheme provision could be made for simpler and more effective methods for the administration of municipal affairs, the necessity for which is manifested in the general dissatisfaction and desire for change which now exists. The advantages which would follow the adoption of some such carefully devised law are manifest.

I think the Legislature should appoint or authorize the Executive to name a commission to consider the subject, and prepare such a plan for the government of cities as they may think proper after a full investigation.

I wish also to direct attention to the growing surplus in the treasury. So prolific are the State's sources of revenue that its annual income during the last fiscal year amounted to more than two million dollars, exclusive of the proceeds of the school tax.

Keeping pace with the growth of the receipts, the State fund balance has now reached a large amount. A deficiency existed in 1889, but this balance fund is now represented by about one million dollars. The amount therein has increased, notwithstanding the fact that disbursements out of State and school funds have each year been larger, and have increased in amount from about fifteen hundred thousand dollars in the year of the deficiency to more than two millions of dollars in the last fiscal year.

The increase in disbursements is partly to be accounted for by the sums required for the needs of a growing State, and partly by the sums expended for educational purposes and in the erection and improvement of State institutions, including armories. In so far as the revenues of the State have been spent for these objects, there is little ground for just criticism or complaint. Something of a permanent and useful character stands in place of the moneys expended, or benefits have been received by the public which fully compensate them for the disbursements. But one of the largest items of increase is to be found in the amount annually appropriated for charitable and reformatory purposes. This sum has increased from about two hundred thousand dollars, spent in 1884, to more than four hundred thousand dollars, spent in 1898. The amount now annually disbursed represents about seventeen per cent. of the State's total yearly expenditures. This increase is so striking, and has grown so rapidly, as to suggest the inquiry whether there cannot be devised some means of retrenchment without injury to those entitled to the bounty of the State. It may well be that many of the inmates of our institutions are now supported at public expense who are not rightly entitled to receive the help of the State.

There is little likelihood of further demands for large extraordinary expenditures in the immediate future, except in one or two instances. If economy be practiced, and the income received by the State shows no appreciable falling off, the State fund is not likely to decrease. It is more likely to assume proportions which will be far larger than the needs of the State require. Its existence will prove a constant inducement to extravagance or unwise expenditure. The funds should be maintained at such an amount as prudence and a due regard to the demands thereon, which may be reasonably anticipated, may suggest. Any sum in excess thereof should be wisely disposed of in relieving the burdens of local taxation. Already some measures in this direction have been adopted without endangering the State's interests or seriously affecting its balances. To what extent, if any, further distribution should be made requires very careful consideration. Many ways in which it can be done readily suggest themselves. There might be returned to the different municipalities that part of the income which is derived from taxes assessed against property therein located. This method is open to the very serious objection that the revenues of the State are uncertain in amount and vary from year to year, as do also the amounts required for legitimate objects of expenditure. A permanent diversion of a portion of its funds might seriously hamper the State and prevent it from meeting just and pressing demands. It is questionable whether this plan would bring about the local relief which those favoring it believe would come from its adoption. It is a matter of common observation that expenditures in municipalities are usually limited by the amounts subject to their disposal, and it is within the range of probability that means would be found to dispose of moneys thus returned without a corresponding reduction of tax rate.

It would be better, in my judgment, under existing circumstances, if any action is taken by the legislature, to devise some plan whereby the amount diverted should not be a fixed annual sum, but one varying according to the condition of the treasury and the claims likely to be made thereon. Appropriations could be made for objects for the support of which the people of the State are now paying direct taxes. In this way the amount now annually raised for the support of public schools could be reduced, or some means might be devised whereby, upon an equitable apportionment, the expenses of the various counties for the support of their courts could in part be defrayed.

In this connection, and as constituting one of the objects for which extraordinary expenditure may be needed, I wish to call your attention to the incompleeted buildings of the State Reformatory at Rahway. From time to time there have been appropriated and expended on their account various sums, aggregating one hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars. Work on these buildings is now and has been practically for more than a year at a standstill. In its incompleeted form the building now partly erected stands as a monument to the folly with which the undertaking was conceived or to the lamentable lack of good judgment shown in not pushing the work to completion. There may be room for honest difference of opinion as to the wisdom of finishing the buildings in accordance with the extensive plans originally authorized. The sum estimated to be necessary for this purpose is a large one - in the minds of many larger than is warranted in accomplishing the objects of a Reformatory. There is a need however, for some new buildings in which to confine our criminals. Increased accommodations must be provided either here or elsewhere. From the annual report it appears that the State Prison is again overcrowded, notwithstanding the recent addition to the number of its cells. Increased accommodation, however, is not all that is demanded. It is of the greatest importance that we should begin at the earliest possible moment a system of prison treatment which, wherever tried, has proved so beneficial in the reformation of criminals. Motives of humanity and selfish interest alike prompt this undertaking. It will be within the province of the Legislature to determine whether the work shall be completed as originally designed, or whether the present plans shall be so modified as to call for the expenditure of a less sum of money without interfering with the method of treatment of prisoners which it is proposed to follow. These statements are not intended to impute a reckless extravagance in the work already done. I believe that the strictest honesty has characterized every disbursement. The buildings are models in simplicity of design, and there is an absence of elaborate and exterior ornamentation calling for useless expenditure. I hope that the Legislature will give earnest attention to the matter, in order that the interests of the State may be served and the inauguration of a great and beneficial work no longer delayed.

There is another subject to which reference can be appropriately made at this time, for it is one in the proper solution of which the public at large are greatly interested. I refer to the great and increasing value of franchises possessed and exercised by corporations who render public services for pay. Ample proof of this value is to be found in the vast increase in the amount of interest-bearing securities and stock issued by them. This increase in value is due to many causes. Among those that readily suggest themselves are the rapid growth of our cities, the diminished cost of constructing and extending quasi public works, and inventions that facilitate and at the same time decrease the expense of operation. Corporations which supply public necessities in this State have been capitalized in recent years at many times the cost of their property, and vastly in excess of what it would cost to reconstruct them. It is admitted that the public have derived great benefit from the growth of these corporations in the way of better service and lower rates, but this benefit, it is estimated, is less than it might have been if obligations had not been unnecessarily incurred to pay interest on bonds issued to represent the estimated value of the franchises enjoyed. It is not the policy of these companies to pay large dividends on their stock, but rather to find reasons from time to time for increasing issues of their bonds. These are often widely distributed among small investors, and thereby such transactions are rendered more secure. If the charges are true and there are good reasons why past proceedings of this kind cannot be undone, it is all the more important that they should be regulated in the future.

We all fully realize the importance of dealing with this matter in a conservative spirit. The prosperity of a State depends largely on the security which it gives to the capital invested therein. Those obligations, however, which are issued for the estimated value of a franchise do not properly represent capital, if that value is based upon receipts from excessive charges made for public service.

Popular discontent has led to much unwise and injurious legislation on this subject in other States. We should profit by the mistakes that have been made, and devise some just and effective remedy, if one be needed. In some of the States maximum rates have been arbitrarily fixed by statute, but this is a crude method of dealing with the problem, and often unfair in its application to the differing conditions of various localities. A rate that is reasonable in one place may be unreasonable in another. In other States, commissions have been authorized by law to fix rates after a semi-judicial investigation of conditions in each particular case. Experience has shown, however, that it is difficult to confine such legislation and proceedings within rational bounds. In several instances rates thus fixed have been so manifestly unfair that the courts have been constrained to enjoin their enforcement in order to prevent confiscation. Such legislation draws into our courts questions that are not properly of a judicial character, and it would be unfortunate, indeed, if this State should be compelled to enact laws of the kind referred to in order to find a remedy for the alleged evil. If legislation is to be enacted, it should be only after a full investigation into all of the facts and should be free from the objectionable features which I have mentioned.

Events which have been most notable in the history of our country have transpired since the Legislature last convened. A war has been waged and brought to an honorable and successful close. Victories on land and sea, the most splendid in the history of the world, have been won. Our brave soldiers and sailors knew not a single defeat. For them no odds were too great—no difficulties brought dismay. Important and lasting will be the influence of the contest thus waged. We are now, as never before, respected as a powerful and a just people—fearless in the cause of right; forbearing in time of victory. Henceforth our place is prominent in the councils of the nations. New conditions confront us; new problems demand solution; but we meet them courageously. A special significance is to be found in these momentous and swiftly passing events. Our national spirit has been quickened and our people united in sentiment. Old prejudices have disappeared and old wounds have been healed. No section, no class, has yielded to another in display of loyalty and devotion. When the honor of the country was at stake and its safety was threatened, there came from all over this broad land an eager response to the summons to arms. To day, as citizens of one State, we can rejoice with the citizens of other States over the victories won and the honors achieved, and gladly share with them the glory that belongs to all.

New Jersey has cause for special pride in the zeal and patriotism shown by its citizens. Quick, and in numbers greater than allotted, was their response to the call for soldiers, and bitter was the disappointment of those whose eager proffer of service was refused. Whether on land or on sea, New Jersey soldiers and sailors so demeaned themselves that honor and credit came to the State. For fidelity, for intelligence, for willing and patient service during trying times and under discouraging circumstances, they pre-eminently distinguished themselves, and by their conduct won the commendation of all. To them is due all honor, and from the people of the State a grateful recognition of their valor and patriotism.

Many, if not all of them, have made unusual sacrifices. Their continued service has entailed upon them, and upon those dependent on them for their support, unusual hardships and burdens. The compensation which they have received from the national government, limited as it is, cannot be expected to fully reimburse them for their financial losses. In what especial way, whether by pecuniary compensation or otherwise, the State shall make recognition of their sacrifices is for the Legislature to determine. In the justice and the wisdom of its conclusions I have every confidence.

I desire on this occasion to renew my pledge to serve unselfishly and without fear the people of our great commonwealth. I shall to the utmost of my power and with earnest purpose endeavor at all times to guard their interests and promote their happiness. In my efforts I bespeak the generous aid and support of my fellow-citizens, and look for guidance and help to the Supreme Ruler of all nations.
